WRIT IS ISSUED AGAINST MAYOR AND ALD. BROWN

Disqualification From Office and Forfeiture Claimed in Document Naming John Day Plaintiff

COUNCIL WILL MEET TONIGHT

The City Council was scheduled to meet tonight with Mayor David Leeming and Alderman P. R. Brown absent from their seats. A writ was issued today, on behalf of John Day, claiming they are disqualified from office.

While the purpose for which the council meeting had been called was not definitely stated at the City Hall, it was generally understood the legal controversy over the Henley refunding scheme would be the main subject of discussion.

The writ issued today follows: "The plaintiff being a ratepayer of the Corporation of the City of Victoria sues on his own behalf and that of the said corporation, and claims: DISQUALIFICATION CLAIMED

"1. A declaration that the defendant, David Leeming, on the 31st August, 1936, became disqualified as mayor of the said corporation and the defendant, Percival Robert Brown, at the same time became disqualified as an alderman of the said corporation by reason of both defendants obtaining an interest in a contract entered into by the said corporation with one, C. S. Henley, on the said 31st August, 1936.

"2. That the defendants each forfeit and pay to the said corporation the sum of $2,500 for every time that either of them have voted or do vote at any meeting of the municipal council of said corporation since their disqualification as aforesaid. 3. An injunction restraining the said David Leeming and Percival Robert Brown from, respectively, acting as mayor or alderman of the said corporation.

"4. That the said corporation pay the plaintiff's costs of this suit."

PRINCIPALS MUTE
Neither Mayor Leeming, Alderman Brown nor the city solicitor, H. S. Pringle made any statement on their stands on the matter today.

The mayor and alderman did, however, indicate they would not sit at the meeting tonight, in view of proceedings taken against them.

M. F. Hunter, city clerk, signed the notices calling the session. According to his statement today, the meeting would be legal, according to the Municipal Act.

Both men against whom the writ was issued are veteran members of the City Council. Mayor Leeming this year established a record for continuous service in the chief magistrate's chair, while Alderman Brown has been nine years on the council, having been elected to that body after serving on the school board.

ALBERTA SCRIP IS REDEEMED

First Monthly Pay-off to Dealers With Accounts to Meet Outside Province

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Sept. 10.—First monthly redemption of Alberta Prosperity Certificates, a form of stamped scrip, started at the treasury offices of the provincial government here today.

Wholesalers, retailers and others with accounts to meet outside Alberta were permitted to convert the scrip into Dominion currency.

There was nothing in the nature of a rush at the opening of the treasury offices, officials said. The redemption will continue tomorrow and Saturday.

TOTAL IS $175,000
The scrip has been in circulation—available for circulation—since August 5, and the total amount issued to date is believed to be about $175,000, used to pay road workers taken from the ranks of the unemployed.

Another $75,000 was held ready for distribution to roadworkers, and the government has $250,000 half-printed in case it decides on an additional issue.

Future policy of the "Prosperity Certificates" will be decided after a check is made of the first monthly redemption, according to Hon. W. A.

Sir P. Vincent Is Back Home

Canadian Press
Southampton, Eng., Sept. 10.—Sir Percy Vincent, Lord Mayor of London, arrived at Southampton today after a visit to Canada and said: "It has been a memorable visit."

He attended the Golden Jubilee celebrations in Vancouver and visited Victoria, B.C., and a number of other cities.

Sir Percy said he had found a wide civic spirit in every city, no matter what shade of political opinion it represented. Also, there was "great kindness and a spirit of reciprocal interest between all the cities of the Dominion and the city of London."

RUSSIA LINKS ARE DEBATED

Canadian-Soviet Diplomatic Relations Topic at Dominion Labor Congress

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Montreal, Sept. 10.—Right wing trade unionists are prepared to go farther than ever before in meeting views of the left wing, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada convention delegates were told today during a brief discussion of Soviet relations.

The congress passed a resolution urging the International Federation of Trade Unions to open negotiations with all other union organizations outside the federation in order to consolidate the international labor front organization against the menace of war and Fascism.

The original resolution, submitted by Toronto teamsters and chauffeurs, specifically mentioned affiliation with the "Union of Soviet Russia." The resolutions committee struck out reference to Russia, and Fred Salzberg of Toronto expressed regret.

FOR WORLD PEACE
Russia was the greatest trade union centre in the world, said Salzberg. Moreover, the Russian unions were the strongest force in a country which was the most vital factor in the world for international peace and opposition to war.

Proof of this, he said, was to be seen in the fact that Russian labor unions had subscribed $20,000,000 to assist the workers' government in Spain in its fight against reaction.

PLANES LAND 1,200 SOLDIERS

Associated Press
Minsk, U.S.S.R., Sept. 10.—Soviet Russia's army, to the accompaniment of amazed gasps from foreign observers, landed 1,200 troops and a regimental band simultaneously from a fleet of warplanes on parachutes today.

The feat was accomplished during war games in progress here. The troops, carrying machine guns and ammunition and reinforced with field pieces, dropped from other planes, occupied enemy airfields and began to use it as a base, deep within "hostile" territory.

Fallow, Acting Provincial Treasurer. "There is nothing definite to say yet," he said. "While there might not be any new issue, we might release what comes in for redemptions. But we will have to see first how the redemptions work out."

A substantial proportion of the $175,000 issued so far has been withdrawn from circulation by souvenir hunters. It was reported, although the amount so disposed of has not been definitely estimated.

Auto Lights In Round-up

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Automobile headlights in Vancouver are at least 50 per cent imperfect, according to tests taken on city streets here yesterday. Owners of automobiles with faulty lights were ordered to have them adjusted and to report to traffic headquarters within forty-eight hours or be prosecuted.

Little Aid For City Foreseen

Ottawa Not Very Sympathetic to Request For Capital City Assistance

Little hope for securing special capital city assistance from the federal government was indicated in a letter received at the City Hall today from Dr. S. P. Toimie, M.P.

Dr. Toimie said he had taken up the city's request for a capital city grant, similar to Ottawa's, with the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa, but the minister had referred to the danger of setting a precedent.

Furthermore, the minister had pointed out, there was no legislative authority to permit such a grant being made and the whole question was one of important government policy.

Dominion Loan Of $100,000,000 Oversubscribed

Finance Minister Announces Books Closed Two and Half Hours After Issue Offered

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Finance Minister Dunning announced today the subscription lists for the new $100,000,000 Dominion loan which opened at 9 a.m. E.D.T. were closed at 11:30 o'clock. The offering of 1 per cent notes and 3 per cent perpetual bonds proved popular with Canadian investors and the issue was over-subscribed heavily.

The loan took the form of 4½-year, 1 per cent notes due March 15, 1941, offered at $98.25, to yield 1.40 per cent to maturity and 3 per cent perpetual bonds callable after September 15, 1966, priced at $98.50, to yield 3.11 per cent.

Proceeds of the issue will be used for refunding Dominion obligations totalling $73,168,200 and for general purposes of government.

The perpetual bonds are the first issue of that kind by the Dominion, the feature being no stated maturity date. They are common in other money markets, particularly London.

REFERENDUM PLAN

Canberra, Australia, Sept. 10 (Canadian Press).—Prime Minister James Lyons told the House of Representatives today the government has decided to take an early referendum to amend the constitution so as to enable the Commonwealth to control marketing and safeguard the interests of primary producers.

Through the nation similar spade battalions assembled on their drill grounds. Commands given at Nuremberg were transmitted to them by radio and they duplicated manoeuvres before the party of high Nazi officials which accompanied Hitler to the review.

The ranks of labor recruits, dressed in carefully-groomed uniforms decorated with an insignia of a spade and swastika superimposed on two ears of grain, took almost three hours to pass the reviewing stand.

POWER PLANT LOSS IS $350,000

Ontario Hydro Station Twenty Miles From Sudbury Destroyed By Fire

Canadian Press
Sudbury, Ont., Sept. 10.—Fire early today completely destroyed the Stinson plant of the Ontario Hydro-electric Power Commission on the Wahnapitae River, about twenty miles east of here.

The Stinson plant is one of three hydro plants on the Wahnapitae River serving Sudbury and district.

The fire will not affect power service to Sudbury city, but will affect other parts of the district, according to hydro officials in Toronto.

Mother Aids Kidnapper Hunt

Associated Press
Detroit, Sept. 10.—Acting Chief of Detectives William J. Collins announced at noon today that "we know the identity and whereabouts of the kidnapper of Harry Browne, and expect to close in on him momentarily."

The twenty-month old Browne baby disappeared last Saturday from the park where his small brothers had taken him in his perambulator.

Since then Boy Scouts and others have joined in the hunt.

Yesterday the search was concentrated along the Ohio state line by Michigan state police checking three reports of a man and a baby riding in an automobile in that vicinity.

The picture above shows Mrs. Harry Browne with the two young sons who had the baby out for an airing when he disappeared.

HITLER SEES LABOR CORPS

At Nuremberg 43,000 Nazi Workers Carrying Spades Stage Parade

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Nuremberg, Germany, Sept. 10.—Armed with shiny spades, 43,000 Nazi-Germans' labor corps pledged lasting allegiance to Adolf Hitler today as "happy, healthy, self-confident soldiers of work."

A smiling Fuehrer, pleased by vociferous Nazi convention reception of his anti-Bolshevik crusade, heard the solemn promise to "follow you wherever you lead."

Presenting the picked battalions, Maj.-Gen. Konstantin Hierl, Nazi commissioner for compulsory labor service, told the Chancellor.

"You know, mein Fuehrer, that your labor men are not dissatisfied slaves, but happy, healthy and self-confident soldiers of work who have proudly and gladly responded to the call of duty."

Throughout the nation similar spade battalions assembled on their drill grounds. Commands given at Nuremberg were transmitted to them by radio and they duplicated manoeuvres before the party of high Nazi officials which accompanied Hitler to the review.

The ranks of labor recruits, dressed in carefully-groomed uniforms decorated with an insignia of a spade and swastika superimposed on two ears of grain, took almost three hours to pass the reviewing stand.

An unofficial estimate placed the loss at the building and machinery at between $300,000 and $400,000. All equipment with the exception of the enclosed turbines is a total loss.

Warned Of War Danger British Workers Are For No Intervention In Spain

BLUM CABINET GETS SUPPORT

New Communist and Socialist Pledges End Rumors of Split in France

Canadian Press from Havas
Paris, Sept. 10.—New Communist pledges of "unwavering support" to the government of Premier Blum did much today to dissipate rumors of a split in the People's Front over the Spanish issue.

Maurice Thorez, Communist leader, told a meeting of leftist deputies that not even the disagreement over the neutrality policy would shake Communist support of Premier Blum.

Similar statements evincing a desire to preserve the People's Front at all costs were made by Radical Socialist and Socialist spokesmen. The moderate tone adopted yesterday by the executive committee of the General Confederation of Labor added the final necessary conciliatory touch to a day in which the new strikes proclaimed by 100,000 workers in various cities sounded the only discordant note.

TO SEND DELEGATION
The administrative committee of the Socialist Party proclaimed its absolute solidarity with the government, but agreed, in reply to a new letter from Thorez, to send a joint delegation to Premier Blum to discuss the possibility of modifying the Spanish non-intervention policy.

Negotiations for a settlement of many of the new strikes were reported under way.

NUDIST IS SEEN IN VANCOUVER

Canadian Press

MEDICAL AID SENT TO SPAIN

Canadian Press from Havas
London, Sept. 10.—Three cases of medical supplies and surgical instruments sent by the British Labor Party to the Spanish government were en route to Barcelona today. The supplies left Gatwick, Surrey, by plane last night for Paris. Similar shipments will be sent weekly for the duration of the civil war.

KING EDWARD EXTENDS HOLIDAY

Canadian Press from Havas
Vienna, Sept. 10.—King Edward VIII will extend his visit to Vienna until Sunday, it was learned today. It was believed the extension was for the purpose of further medical consultations here.

The British sovereign, homeward bound from a Mediterranean cruise, went to Trunau, near Traiskirchen, lower Austria, today to hunt partridges.

Veiled Warning By Soviet To Hitler

Moscow Leaders Indicate Fuehrer and Nazi Party Convention at Nuremberg Being Closely Watched

By CHARLES F. NUTTER
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Moscow, Sept. 10.—Official Soviet sources, declaring "we have no plans so far to recall our ambassador to Berlin," warned Germany in veiled fashion today it must not go too far in anti-Bolshevik polemics.

These sources let it be known Moscow was watching the Nazi Party convention at Nuremberg closely in the belief Adolf Hitler was preparing to "spring another surprise" on Europe.

Editorial ridicule of Nazi declarations rumbled in the Soviet press in the wake of caustic criticism of Bolshevism and Jewry by German Chancellor Hitler at Nuremberg.

"The Nazis' traveling circus" was the title given to the German political convention by the newspaper Pravda, which commented that "to an empty stomach the Nazis have added an empty pocket-book."

The congress began unluckily—very unluckily—for the future prospects of Germany are famine, cruel terror and a prospect of a war of occupation," the newspaper continued.

"Nazis are in a most unattractive position, trying to silence a people threatened with famine. Wild anti-Bolshevik polemics."

Government's Policy Upheld at Trades Congress With Only Seven Dissenting Votes; Amendment in Favor of Supplying Arms to Loyalists in Spain Defeated by 3,029,000 to 51,000 Votes

Canadian Press
Plymouth, Eng., Sept. 10.—The British Trades Union Congress today adopted an emergency resolution from the central council endorsing the British government's non-intervention stand in the Spanish civil war.

Delegates representing 3,088,000 members voted for the resolution while votes of only 51,000 members were cast against it.

Prior to adopting the resolution, the congress defeated an amendment moved by W. Zak of the Furnishings Trades Union, in favor of supplying arms to Spain.

NEW ATTACK ON MADRID

Spanish Rebel Leader Says Road Now Open From Southwest

Canadian Press from Havas
La Coruna, Spain, Sept. 10.—Gen. Francisco Franco today massed his insurgent forces at Talavera de la Reina for a crushing rebel onslaught against Madrid.

The rebel generalissimo indicated the zero hour for the advance on the capital was at hand.

Gen. Franco was met near the front by Gen. Emilio Mola, commander-in-chief of the rebel northern drive, and the two insurgent leaders immediately went into conference on strategy for the big push on Madrid.

SAVS ROAD OPEN
"The road to Madrid is now open," Gen. Franco declared on his arrival at the front lines. "Not only have we hurled the enemy back here, but the Nationalist troops are advancing on Toledo, and Sierra de Gredos is completely in our hands."

Talavera de la Reina is only seventy miles southwest of Madrid.

By ROBERT B. PARKER JR.
Associated Press Correspondent
San Sebastian, Spain, Sept. 10.—Fascist rebels, whose northern march has led them to the gates of San Sebastian, were reported turning their entire attention today to the projected assault on Madrid.

Insurgent commanders, who apparently agreed to an unofficial armistice in the advance on this resort city, were represented as believing subjugation of the major government posts on the coast was "as good as achieved."

(Turn to Page 2, Col. 7)

ARMY QUESTION

W. Zak of the Furnishings Trades Union, then moved his amendment in favor of supplying arms to Spain. "We are not asking for armed intervention," he said.

W. Hann upheld the original resolution. "I am a Pacifist but not a fool," he said.

Zak's amendment in favor of the supply of arms was defeated, delegates representing 3,088,000 members opposed it, while support was forthcoming only on behalf of 51,000 members.

The congress then carried the general council's resolution, which involves a policy of non-intervention, with only seven dissenters.

AGAINST CONSCRIPTION
On a show of hands the congress adopted a resolution moved by A. G. Tomkins of the Furnishings Trades Union that "on no account whatever shall the trade union movement assist the government in its desire for conscription, either in the armed forces or the industrial field, in the event of war, but will actively resist all such efforts."

Veiled Warning By Soviet to Hitler

Soviet lies will hardly be a sufficient diet for that."

Associated Press, Sept. 10.—Nuremberg, Germany, Sept. 10.—Hitler and his associates, proclaimed by Adolf Hitler as dual enemies of Germany, reached new heights of Nazi animosity today.

As delegates convened in the third day's sessions of the annual National Socialist Party convention, international implications of Der Fuehrer's warning became increasingly evident. Unofficial reports, which could not be confirmed, the Associated Press said, spread through the party delegations that Moscow might recall its ambassador to Berlin as a result of the scathing attack on the Soviet Union pronounced by the German Chancellor last night.

ADDRESS ON "CULTURE"

"Bolshevism seeks to exterminate governments based on a community of race and blood and replace them by non-Aryan Jewish elements of race," Hitler said in his address on "culture."

"Sooner or later Sovietistic authority states will end in anarchy since Jewish elements possess only despotic faculties, never organizing constructive ones."

The Chancellor accused Jews of simulating interest in culture solely for monetary gain, and asserted:

"The only fundamental truth is that no man can have any realization of cultural achievement if it is not rooted in his own inner self."

CALLS PARASITES

He bluntly condemned 98 per cent of the leadership of Soviet Russia as "Jewish parasites" and blamed Spain's civil war on the influence of Spanish Jews.

The German party leader disclosed his intentions to rebuild Berlin as a monument to the energy and creative spirit of the Nazi party. He gave no details, but said the project, when completed, would "fill our people with pride" because it would be the "only really imperishable investment in human effort whose achievement is art."

According to the Havs News Agency, the Fuehrer also told the cultural session that the world's peoples were living "in a state of unbearable tension." Turning to the "rightful events of the French revolution," he described the birth of "the god of war" in Europe, "already torn by the idea of revolution."

"Pious prayers and patriotic hymns were stifled in the furor of the 'Marcelline'," Hitler declared. "Some years later, from the country which had proclaimed liberty, equality and fraternity, a new revolutionary wave was unleashed on the old states of the continent."

RESTRICTIONS FOR INDIVIDUALS

Individual liberty must be restricted for the good of the national community, the Fuehrer insisted. "No state was created by present-day democracy. All the great nations were destroyed by this democracy, which leads fatally toward anarchy."

More Deaths In Palestine Fights

Five Britishers Killed By Arabs; Three Native Constables Wounded

Canadian Press from Hava, Jerusalem, Sept. 10.—Five British law-enforcement officers today were added to the ever-increasing death toll in the Arab-Jew dispute in the Holy Land.

A British infantry corporal and four British police were killed and three native constables were wounded in clashes with Arab bands yesterday.

The fatalities occurred near Rose Pina when a British truck squadron rushed to the aid of a mail auto besieged by a band of Moslem marauders. The battle continued until after dark, when the Arabs finally were dispersed with the aid of British reinforcements.

The three constables and two of their Arab adversaries were wounded near Acre. Several British planes participated in that clash, which started when the Arabs fired from ambush on a detachment from the York and Lancaster Regiment, which went out a wireless call for help.

Authorities discovered a powerful mine yesterday on the main road from Nabulus to Tulkarem.

U.S. WARSHIPS LEAVE SPAIN

Associated Press

Washington, Sept. 10.—Secretary of State Hull announced today that the four United States war vessels now in Spanish waters had been ordered withdrawn.

The ships, which were sent to Spain in late July to aid in the evacuation of United States nationals from the revolutionary zone, have been instructed to proceed to nearby ports to await possible emergency calls from Spain.

In announcing the action, Mr. Hull repeated repeated and insistent appeals made by the State Department to Americans in Spain to leave the country and noted that since the outbreak of revolution some 1,000 nationals have been removed from the danger zone with the aid of both commercial and naval vessels.

British View, as Expressed in London Newspapers, Is That Present Is Not Time For Restitution

Canadian Press

London, Sept. 10.—Chancellor Hitler's demand for colonies voiced at the Nazi Party Congress at Nuremberg yesterday is meeting a cool reception.

It is pointed out here neither the covenant of the League of Nations nor any international agreement lays down the machinery for revocation of mandates or their transfer to another power. Any such machinery would have to be created.

South Africa, Australia and New Zealand would be directly affected as well as Britain. They all hold former German colonies under mandate.

Although Japan is not a member of the League, she still holds a number of former German Pacific islands under League mandates.

Disapproval of Hitler's demand for the return of German colonies was expressed editorially in a number of newspapers.

The London Times said: "Some day perhaps the system of mandates may be widely extended, but in the meantime British public opinion, even so far as it theoretically is sympathetic to the German claims, would never be willing to consider it seriously except in relation to a general settlement and in return for the practical renunciation by Germany of war as an instrument of policy."

At present the war mentality is being fostered in Germany, and to make concessions to it would be merely to invite larger demands tomorrow."

The London Daily Telegraph said: "Germany's campaign for colonies would brush aside all such considerations as the wishes of all sections of the community concerned."

The London Daily Telegraph added: "It matters nothing to the German claim that pre-war Germany drew less than 3 per cent of her imports of raw materials from her colonial possessions, or that the total number of German settlers in them was fewer than 20,000."

CLEAR STATEMENT NEEDED

The London Morning Post said: "Unfortunately Hitler received indirect encouragement from the British government. If instead of prevaricating it had declared unambiguously that in no circumstances would it surrender territory, it is fairly certain that yesterday's manifesto would never have been declared in Nuremberg."

URGES NEGOTIATIONS

The London Daily Herald urged Hitler to get on with the negotiations in which the Locarno powers offered to include a frank examination of the international economic situation. It added: "If Hitler is in earnest he will stop shouting and begin talking."

VIC MEYERS IN BIG POLLS WIN

Associated Press

Seattle, Sept. 10.—Lieut.-Governor Victor A. Meyers couldn't hit a sour note today if he tried—and he wouldn't try.

The violinist, pianist, orchestra-leader, Lieut.-Governor of Washington State, who entered politics as a jest in 1932, was no political joke today.

He dominated the Washington State primary election as he did his musicians when he was the Northwest's most widely-known orchestra leader. Meyers not only won the Democratic nomination, but in the primary on Tuesday he buried his five Democratic opponents under 136,036 votes—more than doubled the four Republican candidates received together.

It startled politicians and perhaps Meyers himself, though he gave slight indication of it.

"Chalk it down as a triumph of music over speeches," said the stocky Meyers, thumping a few lilted chords on the piano in his home. "People would rather hear music than political talks. That's what we gave them."

REORGANIZATION PLAN IN THE U.S.

Associated Press

New York, Sept. 10.—According to a dispatch from Washington, published in The New York Times, President Roosevelt is considering for submission to the United States Congress, in event of his election, a far-reaching plan of governmental reorganization.

A possibility, The Times stated, would be consolidation of the army, navy and air corps in a department of national defence.

REVENUE FAR BELOW HOPES

Vancouver Mayor Criticizes Ticket Sales Group; No Trip For Jubilee Queen

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Mayor G. G. McGeer today criticized the method used by the Golden Jubilee committee in advance sales of Golden Jubilee tickets, and said he would like to see Miss Violet Barlow, Jubilee queen, receive her trip to London on the Golden Jubilee.

He said, however, that the city could not assume the responsibility of the ticket selling organization.

"The Jubilee sales committee secured tickets to the value of $83,000 from the Jubilee committee," the mayor said. "Revenue to the Golden Jubilee from that source was a disastrous washout."

Miss Barlow said yesterday that Mayor McGeer and former Jubilee Committee chairman J. K. Matheson had told her she would not receive the London trip as the ticket selling organization was a separate and independent committee, and their responsibilities would not be met by the Jubilee committee.

LED IN SALES

"Mayor McGeer has told me that the Jubilee queen's $1200 trip on the Golden Jubilee is definitely off," she said. "If so, it should have been announced during the Golden Jubilee celebrations."

Miss Barlow said that as "Miss Vancouver," she led in ticket sales for the Jubilee and the Kelowna queen, chosen as Miss British Columbia, was next.

"They never did announce a winner and I suppose we can't do anything about it," she said.

"But I don't want to tell all my friends that I didn't know the tickets we sold would be repudiated later. Ministers of the Bridge Bay and Capilano, members of fraternal organizations, service clubs, bank staffs, leading citizens and thousands of individual citizens helped me and to them I give my sincerest thanks."

The contest was officially promoted by the Golden Jubilee sales committee and was authorized by the Golden Jubilee committee.

MORE BUS LINKS FOR C.P.R. SOON

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, dropped a hint here today his company might extend its operation of buses. It would be a "natural progression" for the railway to enter the bus field where highway operations were cheaper than rail.

The Canadian Pacific had no intention of building a ship to compete with the Queen Mary and Normandie for Atlantic speed records, he said, but negotiations for the Australian service were "still continuing."

BOND CHARGE AT VANCOUVER

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Fred Somers of West Westminster, arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with retaining stolen goods, today had been released on $1,000 bail bonds.

Somers is alleged to have had in his possession on October 4, 1935, $1,000 worth of government bonds, the property of Walter Thorne, knowing them to have been stolen.

NO SURRENDER AT ALCAZAR

Spanish Rebels Besieged in Toledo Refuse When Loyalists Give Them Chance

By JAMES C. OLDFIELD

Associated Press Correspondent Toledo, Spain, Sept. 10.—Col. Jose Mascaron, commander of voluntarily imprisoned rebels in the besieged Alcazar, refused a government demand to surrender today.

"With Gen. Emilio Mola (rebel leader) at the gates of Madrid, you will be the ones to surrender," Mascaron told a blindfolded Socialist officer who walked into the rebel camp to present the ultimatum.

With the curt phrase: "Whatever befalls me and my men shall befall us all," Mascaron dismissed a further request to release from the Alcazar the hundreds of women and children who have camped inside the shattered walls of the fortress for the last fifty-one days. The government promised safe conduct for the non-combatants.

As an afterthought, Col. Mascaron added: "You can send us a priest in case we need last sacraments."

Major Juan Rojo, staff officer of the government forces, braved the danger of possible death inside the Alcazar, where approximately 1,500 rebels are living, to present the ultimatum.

ATTAACK RESUMED

The talk over, Fascist guards led Rojo back to the gate, rebel buglers gave the signal, and the major was released.

Once the government officer was out of range, Socialist militiamen began a deadly rain of hand grenades and dynamite into the fortress from nearby positions.

Artillery took up the fire and for three hours the Alcazar was shaken by explosions. Then the bombardment was halted for lunch and a siesta.

BOMBS KILL FOUR

Suddenly, three rebel bombing planes appeared over Toledo. The Fascist fliers dropped eight bombs, which killed four persons and injured thirty more. The air raid continued outside the city in the western section.

One of the bombs just missed the cathedral. Inside the city hall, pale officials attempted to remove art treasures, but dropped them and fled as the rain of missiles came nearer.

DEMOCRATS IN ALASKA WIN

Associated Press

Juneau, Alaska, Sept. 10.—Democratic legislative, congressional and territorial candidates, who advocated abolition of fish traps and the retention by the territorial liquor control board of full power to enact liquor legislation, won over their Republican opponents in Tuesday's general election, returns indicated today.

The Legislature, composed of a senator and four representatives from each of the four territorial divisions, will be Democratic when it convenes in January. Only two Republicans were assured of election.

GREETINGS CONVEYED

Montreal, Sept. 10.—Organized labor's international ramifications came before the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today as fraternal delegates from labor organizations of other countries delivered addresses of greeting.

The visitors were Harold Clay, representing the British Trades Union Congress; M. J. Gilhooly of Toledo, Ohio, representing the American Federation of Labor; and W. Schevenels, general secretary of the International Federation of Trades Unions, Sir Walter Citrine, secretary of the British Trades Union Congress, was invited but was unable to come to Canada.

MANY RESOLUTIONS

As the convention entered its third day most of the 205 resolutions on its order paper were still to be considered.

Yesterday the congress went on record as opposed to railway amalgamation either entire or "piece-by-piece" as the process of co-operation of services was called; in favor of national health insurance; urging immediate application of the Employment and Social Insurance and in favor of a widened national housing act.

Pressure from congress to secure legislation guaranteeing workers the right to organize in unions of their own choice was forecast by P. M. Draper, president, as several delegates told of alleged interference with labor organization work by employers.

NEW ATTACK ON MADRID

Intermittent rifle firing and a few artillery shots were heard this morning from the direction of Renteria.

SELLING OUT

Inhabitants of San Sebastian hastened preparations to evacuate the city and merchants sought to sell out their stocks at any price.

The key to the armistice apparently lay in the declaration of Municipal Governor Antonio Ortega, who said:

"I disapprove thoroughly of the action of Anarchists at Iruia (which was sacked and burned during capture by the rebels). There will be no burning of San Sebastian while I am alive."

The insurgents previously had refused an offer to negotiate a truce, and General Ortega, extended for Governor Ortega by his son.

MASS DEPARTURE

Despite the cessation of hostilities, more refugees fled from San Sebastian in boats, bringing the total number of departing residents to approximately 40,000. The departures were countered by the arrival of 25,000 refugees from the Iruia area during the last days of fighting.

Harmony in the government ranks inside the city was brought with the arrival of 500 armed Basques from Bilbao.

The Basques took over police duties in the municipality, dispatched Fascist hostages to Bilbao, and ordered all Anarchists and other militiamen not needed here to proceed to the front.

Rebel forces, meanwhile, held their positions in the surrounding territory at Renteria, Pasajes, Aho and Avila.

ATTACK REPULSED

Madrid, Sept. 10 (Associated Press).—Government militiamen at Monro, in Andalusia, repulsed an attack by Moorish rebels, killing twenty-two of the insurgents, the War Minister reported today. The ministry declared a Fascist airplane was brought down by government machine gunners near Avila. The ship was burned and all its occupants killed.

Canadian Press from Hava, Madrid, Sept. 10.—Communists today demanded all the forces of the nation be immediately nationalized and centralized as the only way to end the revolt and establish peace in Spain.

Command at the front and behind the lines must be centralized and the utmost co-ordination is needed if anarchy is to be avoided, the left extremists said.

Mundo Obrero, organ of the Spanish Communist Party, warned that "everyone must consider, first and above all, the question of defence of the republic."

New Officer For Vancouver

Executive Like City Manager
Recommended in Barrett-
Lennard Report

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Appointment of a chief civic executive officer, whose duties would be similar to those of a city manager, is recommended by the Vancouver civic finance committee in a report by W. J. Barrett-Lennard, chartered accountant, who made a reorganization survey of civic business and administration methods.

He also recommends the present system of allowing a rebate for prompt payment of taxes be substituted with a penalty if taxes are not paid by a certain date.

Discontinuance of the present system of allowing taxpayers to appeal against their assessments annually, and permitting them, instead, to make their appeals after the tax rate has been fixed and they know the amount of taxation they owe is recommended in the report, which was made public yesterday.

M'GEER PLANS LONDON VISIT

The question of expenses was not mentioned in the council's resolution granting leave of absence.

HUGE CROWD AT SAANICH FAIR

Lieutenant-Governor Opens Annual Exhibition in Perfect Weather; 2,000 People View Record Number of Entries

As the sun sank below the horizon and trucks carried home the last bleating sheep or squealing pig, the oldest country fair in British Columbia, the sixty-eighth annual exhibition of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society passed into history.

Officially opened by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Eric W. Hamber at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the fair this year was one of the most successful and entries in many classes were as much as four times what they were last year.

Directors of the agricultural association are infinitely at picking the right day for their show again, was blessed by perfect weather. Not a cloud was in the sky, and despite the fact there was no holiday in Victoria, almost 2,000 people thronged the agricultural hall at Saanichton and crowded around the show rings and outdoor attractions in the grounds.

"Saanich is the Indian word for 'fair land' and its results are exemplified in the high quality of the exhibits at your show," declared the Lieutenant-Governor.

"These fairs bring together the producer and the consumer and allow them to understand better each other's problems," he said, "from them I am sure will come the realization that the producer should receive a fair price for his produce."

Mr. Hamber said that Saanich was the foremost agricultural district in British Columbia. It was particularly noted for its seed, small fruits, flowers and bulbs, and its nursery gardens were "second to none."

Congratulating the directors and members of the agricultural association, the Lieutenant-Governor declared, "it is an exhibition to be proud of."

In the unavoidable absence of H. E. Tanner, president, Alex McDonald, M.P.P., introduced the Lieutenant-Governor. Mr. McDonald pointed out that for sixty-eight years, without a break, the Saanich Agricultural Association had held its fairs.

On the platform with Mr. and Mrs. Hamber were Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., George T. Mitchell, manager of the fair; James White, first vice-president; Fred Turgoo, second vice-president; Mr. McDonald, and Captain Reginald Mitchell, A.D.C., P.P.C.L.I.

HIGHLAND DANCING

Following the opening ceremonies, the vice-regal party watched the highland dancing and Mrs. Hamber presented some of the young dancers with their prizes.

Throughout the sun drenched afternoon the fair grounds presented an animated picture with activity everywhere. On the platform in front of the Pioneer Cabin, Scottish and old-time dancing to the strident of the bagpipes was in full swing, while a few yards away children cheered their favorites in the school sports.

In the opposite corner of the field tiny Pekinese were being lead around the ring in the dog show, while close by huge dry horses paraded for the judges. Spectators also found time to look at prize cattle, sheep, pigs, chickens and rabbits in the livestock stalls and passed through the main building to view the horticultural and hobby exhibits.

One of the main features of the livestock exhibits was the five-legged Derringer lamb, grown a little larger than when it was last shown with its extra leg sticking out of the back of its neck also bigger.

In the hall the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology had an interesting exhibit of various plant diseases. The Saanich Health Department had an educational display particularly on the subject of dental care. G. E. Wardie, Sidney grower, showed some lovely irises in one corner of the building.

SHEEP

In the pure-bred classes of sheep, Charles Ecclestone had the championship ram and ewe. Arthur Locke and James Turner split the awards in the grade and commercial classes and in carcasses for the best dressed lamb. T. K. Harrop was the judge.

H. C. Oldfield, W. W. Mitchell and George T. Mitchell were the main winners among those showing ewes. T. K. Harrop again judged.

APPEAL FOR LOST CAMERA

A Kodak Volledda micro-camera with an F 45 Schneider Kreuznach lens was lost between Nanaimo and Victoria on Labor Day. As the camera contains film which is of value to this newspaper, the return of it would be appreciated.

The collapsible baby Kodak, which is in a soft leather bag with a clip-on-top very much like a money bag, can easily be identified.

It is also distinctive in that it takes distinct pictures on an ordinary roll of film. There are very few cameras of this type in use.

Police have been notified of its loss and have full information.

The camera is loaded with a verichrome film, on which fifteen pictures have been taken.

If the finder will return it to The Times newspaper, a reward will be paid.

A Flemish buck shown by C. Woolley was judged best among the rabbits. W. G. Bird was another prominent winner in this class. T. Clarke judged.

The quality in the egg classes was exceptional according to William Hagger, judge, with seventy-eight out of eighty often being the score of the best, and a quarter of a point separating exhibitors. G. A. Harris, W. J. H. Miller, W. H. Brown, Frank Butler all won championship ribbon.

PHOTOGRAPHY

There were four times as many exhibits in the amateur photography as there were last year, and Mrs. E. A. Nelson and Hilary Bastin took most of the firsts. J. H. Grant won in the advanced class. T. A. Waterworth was judge.

In the grains, grasses, field roots and potatoes, honors were split up between Mrs. E. W. Darcus, while other winners in the bottled fruit and jams included Mrs. A. R. Anderson, Mrs. L. H. MacQueen and Mrs. W. H. Brown. Mrs. J. D. Gordon was judge.

Mrs. A. R. Anderson showed the best loaf in the show, while Mrs. W. H. Brown won $3 for six biscuits in the Blue Ribbon Tea Biscuit competition. Mrs. P. Sheritt and Mrs. A. Hafer scored, while Phyllis Deveson was the best girl cook. Mrs. S. W. Raven judged the dairy products and household arts.

In the honey class there were good exhibits, but little competition. Ladies' work saw Mrs. C. H. Borden take seven prizes, with Mrs. A. Adams, Mrs. L. H. Towers, Mrs. Doyle and Mrs. F. Wood the other principal winners. Mrs. L. M. Abbott was judge.

Tolmie School ran away with most of the prizes in the school class. Of particular note were the salt-flour relief maps which the students had built and which Tolmie won. Another exhibition of note in the galleries was a drawing of St. Queen Mary, done by Strawberry Vale School, which was not up for competition. Mrs. W. G. De Rousie also had a display of sea shells.

HORSES

Major A. D. Macdonald and H. E. Burbridge were the chief winners in the best demonstration in the sheep dog trials.

Mrs. M. Constantine with Coats Cle, a fox terrier, won the award for the best dog in the show.

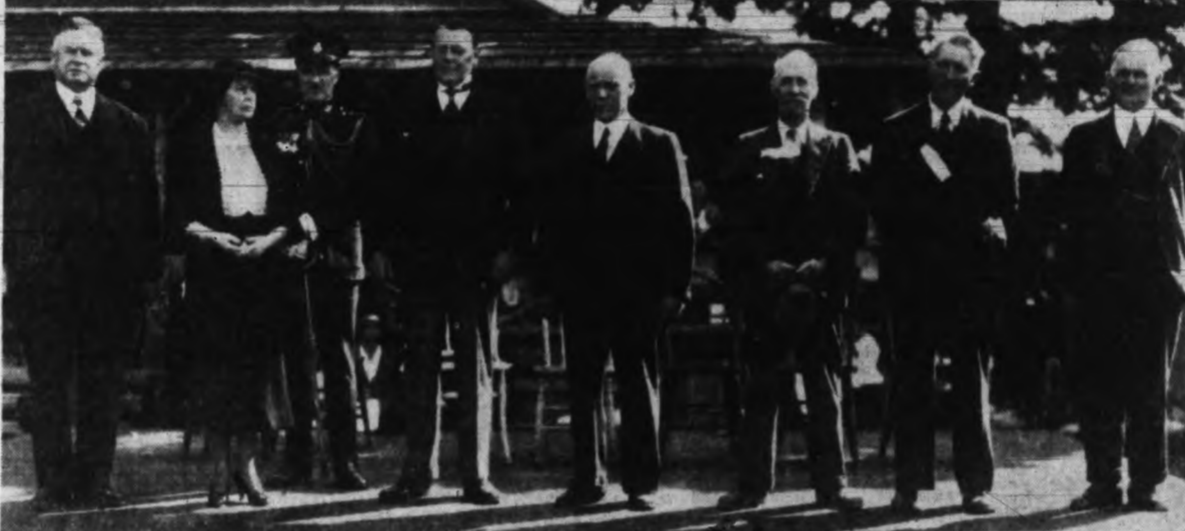

Two Vancouver lassies, Betty Pringle and Ella Dalg, took most of the prizes in the Highland dancing events. Lillian Grant and Walter Burgess were judged the best dressed Highland lassie and the best dressed Highland laddie.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Representatives of prairie wheat pools yesterday protested to the government against the pegging of wheat prices at 87½ cents. A sub-committee of the Dominion cabinet, made up of Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines, and Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, listened to representations by a delegation from the west.

Headed by L. C. Brouillette, president of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited, the delegation claimed the price fixed was too low. It also objected to the provision under which wheat must drop to 90 cents before the government price becomes effective.

Mr. Euler told the delegation its representations would be laid before the cabinet.

Federal-Provincial Plan For Single Jobless For Winter

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Farmers and those engaged in other primary industries may be in the position next winter of being provided with labor at the cost of board and lodging alone, or possibly without even that expense. This was made known in the government's announcement yesterday evening of plans to care for single, homeless unemployed adults.

In co-operation with the provinces the government proposed to pay half the cost "of such plans as can be worked out in conjunction with the provinces for the purpose of absorbing in primary product industries all physically fit, single homeless adults."

The proposals, as explained by Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, and A. B. Purvis, chairman of the National Commission on Employment and Relief, involves placement of such men on farms, forestry projects and other industries, with the Dominion and the province concerned sharing equally in securing the man.

Encouraged by the outcome of similar provisions made by the United States Government, the intention is to extend the Housing Act to the extent that personal loans up to $2,000 may be advanced to home-owners without endorsement at a maximum of 4 per cent interest for terms up to five years.

Guarantees against losses up to 15 per cent of the total over a given period will be made by the Dominion Government, the total maximum liability to be thus assumed to be fixed initially at $7,500,000—covering $50,000,000 worth of loans.

Employment problems and League of Nations policies occupied the ministers yesterday. A meeting of the cabinet this forenoon was to be followed by one this afternoon. Mr. King and his associates on the League of Nations delegation will leave Ottawa Friday evening for Geneva.

CLOTHES NEEDED

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 10 (Canadian Press).—Indigent mothers here will call their children out of school on strike unless some immediate action is taken by the City Council to provide them with suitable clothing. Mrs. Georgina Ketcheson warned the council. She headed a delegation of about 100 women.

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Vancouver's Golden Jubilee celebration closed without a deficit, Mayor G. G. McGeer told the City Council yesterday.

Replying to a suggestion from Alderman H. D. Wilson he should delay his proposed trip to London to help gather up "loose ends," Mayor McGeer declared there were no "loose ends" to gather up.

"We have enough to pay all our indebtedness," he declared. "True, there are a few court actions pending, but they involve only about $13,000 and are challenged quite properly by the jubilee committee."

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—A plan under which the Dominion Government will guarantee lending institutions against losses up to 15 per cent for loans to a maximum of $50,000,000 to home-owners for repairs and improvements on dwellings, was announced yesterday evening by Prime Minister King and A. B. Purvis, chairman of the National Commission on Employment and Relief.

The government is also working. It was stated, on a policy of providing low rental homes in urban centres, possibly involving slum clearance, and the construction of houses of a class suitable for those whose incomes enable them to purchase when convenient payments can be arranged. All this will be in conjunction with and dependent on provincial, municipal and community co-operation.

WORK PLANS

At the same time it was announced steps were being taken in co-operation with the provinces whereby single unemployed transients would be put to work in primary industry during the coming winter at wages as near as possible to the general prevailing rates.

Following yesterday's cabinet meeting the Prime Minister, Mr. Purvis and Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, gave details of the broad policies on employment tentatively adopted. Some of them will require federal legislation at the next session, and some provincial legislation may also be involved. No special session would be required, the Prime Minister thought, but all preparations would be completed to introduce legislation when Parliament meets in January.

Encouraged by the outcome of similar provisions made by the United States Government, the intention is to extend the Housing Act to the extent that personal loans up to $2,000 may be advanced to home-owners without endorsement at a maximum of 4 per cent interest for terms up to five years.

Employment problems and League of Nations policies occupied the ministers yesterday. A meeting of the cabinet this forenoon was to be followed by one this afternoon. Mr. King and his associates on the League of Nations delegation will leave Ottawa Friday evening for Geneva.

CLOTHES NEEDED

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 10 (Canadian Press).—Indigent mothers here will call their children out of school on strike unless some immediate action is taken by the City Council to provide them with suitable clothing. Mrs. Georgina Ketcheson warned the council. She headed a delegation of about 100 women.

The Nuremberg Repercussion

TODAY'S DISPATCHES FROM
London tell us that Reichsfuehrer Hitler's demand for the return of former German colonies "is meeting a cool reception." It is not to be wondered at. There is no machinery to authorize the revocation of mandates or their transference from one power to another. New machinery would have to be created and approved by the powers before it could become effective.

The leading London newspapers have this to say: The Times: "Some day perhaps the system of mandates may be extended, but in the meantime British public opinion, even so far as it theoretically is sympathetic towards the German claims, would never be willing to consider it seriously except in relation to a general settlement and in return for the practical renunciation by Germany of war as an instrument of policy. At present the war mentality is being fostered in Germany and to make concessions to it would be merely to invite larger demands tomorrow."

The Daily Telegraph said: "Germany's campaign for colonies would brush aside all such considerations as the wishes of all sections of the communities concerned. It matters nothing to the German claim that pre-war Germany drew less than 3 per cent of her imports of raw materials from her colonial possessions or that the total number of German settlers in them was fewer than 20,000."

The Morning Post said: "Unfortunately Hitler received indirect encouragement from the British Government. If instead of prevaricating it had declared unambiguously that in no circumstances would they surrender territory it is fairly certain that yesterday's manifesto would never have been declared in Nuremberg." This from The Morning Post, reactionary's last stand in Britain, is somewhat startling.

The Daily Herald urged Hitler to get on with the negotiations in which the Locarno powers offered to include a frank examination of the international economic situation. It added: "If Hitler is in earnest he will stop shouting and begin talking."

It will have to be admitted that The Daily Herald hit the nail on the head when it said, or suggested, that Hitler should stop shouting and begin to talk. Dr. Reichsfuehrer is rocking the international boat. He does not seem to realize that when too much rocking is done in his own particular boat he will be the one, to use a colloquialism, who will be "all wet."

War On The Roads

CANADIANS READ WITH HORror the lurid stories from Spain of a conflict taking an average of perhaps 1,000 lives a day. At least 30,000 are dead in Spain in the death struggle that is now several weeks old.

Horrible! Yet in the last seven months, says a dispatch from New York, 18,560 Americans have also been killed, violently, their blood crimsoning the pavements, their mutilation and agonies no less sickening and sharp.

And we are told that they are just as dead as their Spanish brothers, without even such satisfaction as there may be in dying for a cause. They are the traffic victims. If their toll increases during the latter part of the year, as it usually does, then the casualty list will be higher this year than ever before. Last year 37,000 died, probably a greater cost in life than the Spanish revolt told to date. This in spite of widespread safety drives and a mass of publicity for highway safety that has not been equaled in many years.

Then ponder over this dispatch from Great Britain, which we quote in full:

Fourteen thousand children were killed and 400,000 were injured on the roads of Great Britain in the last ten years.

This is one of the "grim and challenging reminders" of the road accident problem given by Lieutenant-Col. J. A. A. Pickard, general secretary of the National Safety First Association, in an appeal to motorists to help in minimizing the danger to children during holidays.

In London, one in every twelve boys meets with a traffic accident during his school life, he said, and added: "Parents and others can also play their part. There are far too many casualties to children who escape from the charge of those who are supposed to be looking after them."

This killing on the highways of the world makes one wonder whether we would not be better off if we could go back to the "horse and buggy days." Travel in this year of grace, 1936, has become a problem for the ordinary individual who can not afford to buy and foot the bill for the upkeep of an automobile has to rely on "Shanks's Pony"—his pedal extremities.

One of these days, perhaps, the motorist who is fortunate enough to possess a car—provided it is paid for—will stop glaring at the humble pedestrian who has the effrontery to imply that he really ought to be permitted to breathe.

Mind Your Own Business

CANADA IS GETTING A GOOD deal of chastisement or near absent treatment these days from visitors from the Old World. Viscount Elibank started it in Toronto, a week or so ago. He told us what we ought to do in the matter of defence. This newspaper already has devoted considerable space to the remarks of the noble lord. Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Canada's Minister of National Defence, told him, quite properly, that, by implication, eleven millions of people are quite capable of attending to their own "knitting."

Now we get a spanking for British Columbia from Lieutenant-Colonel Sir James William Barrett, vice-chancellor of Melbourne University and president of the British Medical Association, who left on the Aorangi last night for the Antipodes. He is reported to have said that regulations governing the new British Columbia Health Act provide a "new tyranny from which there is no appeal."

This newspaper always has defended the principle of state health insurance. It also has said many times that when the finances of the province are in such a state as to be able to launch the scheme in a practical way—then the taxpayers would be agreeable to give it a trial. But we object to travelers from the Old World telling us what we should or should not do.

Confusion in Spain

MR. BEN TILLET, THE VETeran British Trade Unionist, says he is considering going to Spain and placing himself at the disposal of the government forces. He has had a letter in which Senor Largo Caballero, the head of the Spanish trades unions, writes: "This is the most momentous fight of the century. It is not only for Spain that we are hailing the way to Fascism with our flesh and blood; it is for the sake of the whole world."

"Therefore we simply cannot fail. We must triumph and we shall." He goes on to declare that it is absurd to say that the present civil war has anything to do with a Communist movement. The Spanish government forces are not now trying to establish Socialism, he says, they are struggling merely to maintain plain democracy.

Senor Caballero is speaking for himself and those who share his views. Issues in Spain have become so confused that it is to be doubted whether many of the protagonists themselves know what they are fighting for. There are so many shades of opinion on both sides. Moderates on both sides must realize that if their own side wins they will be swamped by extremists.

Changing Language

THE CONSTANT CHANGE GOING on in language is partly due to the tendency to shorten frequently used words and phrases. Dr. Edward L. Thorndike, of Teachers College, Columbia University, told university professors gathered at Hanover, N.H., in the annual meeting of the Psychological Association.

As an example he mentioned the popular tendency to use a noun in place of a verb, as when the cook said: "I haven't time to Juliette the potatoes." "There is no limit, apparently, to the number of possible meanings of such coined uses," continued Dr. Thorndike. "If a person said he wished to 'electron' something, he might mean to bombard it with electrons, to put electrons with it, or even to make it small like an electron. In such invention, the speaker may be influenced by a desire to avoid too frequent repetition of common phrases, as when the phrase 'to send by radio' becomes 'to radio.' This practice will be satisfying or annoying to hearers according to the substitutes used."

Ethiopian Echoes

patches from Ethiopia or Rome, telling of another "bandit" attack on the Italian army of occupation appear in the press every few days. There is a raid on an outlying and isolated post; a sudden descent on the road to Eritrea, or a raid by as many as 1,500 Ethiopians on Addis Ababa itself.

These are not to be interpreted as meaning there is any organized native army still in arms against the Italian invaders. But they are straws which point to the fact that the cost of subduing Ethiopia is not yet entirely paid. And now Mussolini announces he is about to go into the world money markets for another big loan!

Notes

It is more blessed to give than to receive. This is especially true of advice.

So many who feel tolerant are merely tolerant of those who agree with them.

Conscience so often is the thing that tells man what is wrong unless there is money in it.

Another objection to flaming youth is that it usually expects somebody else to furnish the fuel.

France, seeking to cement its ties with Poland, is trying to think of something concrete to offer.

Caddies carry guns on a Madrid, Spain, golf course now. The informed loyalist specifies the number of his shooting iron.

The name seldom reveals an organization's purpose. Not one is named the Society for Meddling in Other People's Affairs.

Another victim of the Spanish fighting is China. Japan always takes a crack at her when Europe is busy watching something else.

It is not age alone that causes a man to sit down more after forty. He no longer worries much about the creases in his trousers.

Dr. Telford says those who did not vote for him last week were "not sincere Christians." There were more than 12,000 of such heathen in Burrard.

LOOSE ENDS

We don't seem to have learned much after all—but things are hardly normal yet—my record is still intact—and the rich worry about money.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

NOTHING LEARNED

IT NOW SEEMS CLEAR, by all the indices, portents and signs, that the depression is about over in America, that we are in the middle stages of a great upward rush of prosperity. This much is clear. What is not so clear is that America has not profited much by the depression and not learned much.

While the depression was going strong there was a real chance to do something about the next one, to try to prevent the next one occurring. People were under the harrow then, thinking hard, disabused, ready for real reforms. Millionaires who are now cursing Roosevelt for a Communist would have been delighted then to give up three-quarters of their fortunes if they could have been sure of hanging on to the other quarter. Now these millionaires are saying the country is ruined because their stocks are worth only about 50 per cent more than when Roosevelt took office, and the public at large is growing "dilly" more sceptical of change and reform.

The golden opportunity to do something really useful to our economic system was not seized and will not be seized; not until the next depression, some years from now. For clearly we have done nothing which will interfere with the normal cycle of our economy, the depression, then the boom, then the bust and so on, around and around. You will forget this in the boom now beginning. You may remember it later on.

RECORD INACT

YESTERDAY I RISKED my record on Cowichan Bay, fished for two solid hours, but I am thankful to say, it is still intact. I dare say I am unbeatable now, the most remarkable salmon fisherman who has ever fished in Cowichan Bay. After fishing for two years without a bite, I thought I was pretty good. On the third year I began to get the idea of piling up a record. By the fourth season, everyone agreed that no body had ever equalled me. Last year marked my fifth year on Cowichan Bay without a bite and it was suggested that some special form of medal or eup should be devised to mark my unique achievement. Yesterday marked my sixth year and still no bite. There has never been anything like it.

My record, of course, would not be impressive if there were no fish in Cowichan Bay. Anybody can go out there when the fish aren't running and fail, day after day, to catch anything. But I have always been sporting about it. I have always chosen a day when the fish were running. I have always chosen a day when all the less accomplished anglers were catching fish and skillfully butting their heads against the thousands of salmon without attracting their attention.

The best guides try to make the fish bite for me. They use all their lore and understanding, but it is no use against the old master. By a kind of blind instinct I guide the spoon between the fish hordes like a pedestrian weaving his way through the traffic of a crowded street. Yes, thousands and thousands of those leaping, wallowing springs must have seen my spoon yesterday. Hundreds must have tried to take it, but what chance did they have against Old Man Jinx?

Most of them didn't attempt the impossible. They just rolled over on the surface with a nasty leer and put their tongues out and thumbed their noses as soon as they saw who was in the boat. From one generation to another the tradition has been handed down. And as soon as one fish catches sight of me, he communicates the fact to the rest of the Bay. "That queer guy is here again," he says, and immediately they all run for cover. No more fish are caught that day. It is worse for the fishing when I come to the Bay than when the whales come and terrify the salmon.

If you want to catch a salmon, go to the Bay right now, by all means. They are running well. Everybody catches them except me and you cannot hope to equal my skill. I have waited for this honor for six years and the fish know me and respect me. They won't let me down.

HUMAN NATURE

UP AT CAMPBELL RIVER the other day (patience, unhappy reader, there is nothing to do with fish) I was talking to an aged guide and he was giving me some slants on human nature. A guide, of course, knows more about human nature than almost anybody. He sees men when all the barriers are down and they are behaving naturally. When a man gets up at four in the morning, in pitch darkness, and sets out in the dark cold, shivering in the stern of a boat with a heavy crowbar clutched in his hand, he is not a fisherman, he is a man. That is why most fishing guides are pretty cynical fellows and usually end up as Communists or Fascists or run for the Legislature and get elected. They make ideal politicians.

Well, an old guide was giving me some four-o'clock-in-the-morning facts of human nature. It is the relatively poor men, he said, who don't care how much it costs, so long as they catch a fish. They may have to go without whisky all winter, but they will spend their money on salmon as if they were millionaires.

It is the rich men who object to paying for their sport. There was one rich man at Campbell River not long ago who had come from London, New York, India and way points. He said the guides' modest fee was outrageous. He said work men should never expect such wages. He wondered what the working classes were coming to and he kept complaining about it for two weeks. The guides in the Alps, he said, made far less and he could spend the winter in some Swiss resort to which he is addicted for the trifling sum of $1,000 a month, including his liquor. He didn't mind spending that on himself, but he objected violently to paying the guides. He said it was the principle of the thing. He couldn't understand what the world was coming to.

It is always the rich who complain about costs, my guide told me; because the rich value money more highly than the poor. They overestimate its importance; whereas the poor man, never expecting to have much; isn't unduly impressed by it. Some poor men are crazy enough to pay guides and boat rent for six years just for the pleasure of not catching any fish at all.

TOUGH ON ASTRONOMERS

Wet Season

FROM A LONDON CORRESPONDENT
EXPERIENCE tells me that we have not had such a dreary summer since 1888. The worst year on record was in 1879, when corn was laying uncut in November. In 1891 there was rain and snow on every holiday.

A feature of the disastrous summer of 1888 was that Southern England had hardly a fine Wednesday, and the lament of "early closers" was loudly heard. It was following that long sequence that many altered the half-day holiday to Thursday.

Failure has attended the efforts of experts to predict the wet and fine seasons by cycles. Their calculations have been easily upset by conditions like those of 1930, when the weather did not set fair until August 15, and by the 29th there was a heat wave, followed by a terrific thunderstorm and remarkable lightning.

An early summer almost invariably means a wet and dreary ending, but frequently a wet early summer means a glorious September, as the records for several years show.

Another fact I have discovered in the course of my research is that Jubilee and Coronation years are always good years. The sun blazed on Queen Victoria in 1887 and 1897. King Edward's year, 1902, was good. Over George had a good summer in 1911 with a heat wave in August, and there was his glorious Jubilee Day last year as early as May 6.

The one favored place in these lands is the little village of "Brightstone or Brixton, Isle of Wight. For over forty years its flower show and sports day with one exception has been unspoiled by rain, and this year, on July 30, it again escaped. A North London person for many years fixed his school treat for St. Swithin's Day, and he commented that it "always came off all right."

ANNUAL MASSACRE

From Public Management

WHAT IF IN 1936 the entire population of Raleigh, North Carolina (37,000) were slaughtered; every man, woman and child in Peoria, Illinois (150,000), were permanently injured, and every person in Cleveland, Ohio (900,000), and Atlanta, Georgia (270,000), were injured? Such an occurrence would arouse the entire country to action, especially all public officials and the press. And yet this is what would have happened if the country's traffic accidents for 1935 were centered in a few cities. This wholesale slaughter, which is without parallel outside of war, has become a national disgrace and calamity. No other cause of death has assumed such increasing proportions.

In addition, the economic loss for 1935 resulting from traffic accidents was $800,000,000, and another $800,000,000 for the property damage in last year's crashes, according to the National Safety Council. This is equal to the total expenditures for the operation and maintenance of all municipal activities in 1931 in the 297 cities between 30,000 and 500,000 population, with the total expenditures for New York City and Detroit thrown in. One of the fundamental causes of 1935 traffic accidents were "speed too fast for conditions" and there was an increase in the "had been drinking" accidents. Here is a problem of the first magnitude, if there ever was one, which cries out for solution. What is your city doing about it?

NANAIMO GETS RELIGION

From The Nanaimo Free Press

As the result of a religious wave that has recently swept through Breahtin, one mile north of Nanaimo, the first of what is expected will be a series of baptismal services took place Sunday afternoon at picturesque Breahtin Point, when well-known citizens of Nanaimo, Breahtin and Northfield were baptized in the rippling waters of the Inlet.

In balmy sunshine, as 200 people looked on, five women converts dressed in white robes, and two men, walked into the water past the waistline, made their vows and were immersed by the pretty twenty-year-old evangelist, Miss Joan Beck, who has been in charge of the Full Gospel Mission of Breahtin for the past two months.

Standing near the water's edge following an impressive service, the followers of the Mission, led by a string orchestra, lustily sang "There's a Joy in My Soul Like the Sea Billows Roll," and similar hymns, during the period of immersion.

Miss Cottle of Breahtin, eighty years of age, was among those to make her vows and be immersed. She appeared in white, wearing a dainty lace cap, and testified as to the happiness she had enjoyed since being on the Lord's side.

The baptismal services, in the opinion of many present, recalled the days of Jerusalem, when pilgrims met at Bethesda, and after the waters were

A strange coincidence was drawn to the attention of the evangelist while the services were in progress. Persons noticed the mist rise from a cloud in the southern sky, and plainly reveal the bowed head of a woman. Later a silhouette of a human form in the arms of another, appeared and remained for a period of approximately ten minutes. The attention of some worshippers were directed toward it. Moving clouds covered it from sight.

LAW OF LIFE FOR NATIONS, TOO

"DANDIES ON DEPOSIT"

FROM A LONDON CORRESPONDENT
Nearly a third of the men at Ascot wore borrowed clothes, according to The Tailor and Cutter.

The paper is very annoyed with this growing practice of men hiring morning clothes for Ascot, weddings and such functions. It calls them "Dandies on Deposit."

Appealing to the trade to stop this "unpleasant practice," the journal declares:

"The perfume from the banks of exotic blooms did little to counteract the smell of mothballs which exuded from the Victorian garb which perambulated the turf."

"ONLY A WOMAN"

"A woman? Bah... she is nothing. A man? Hah... he is everything. There is not anything in the world that is not open to him."—Zdenka Koubova, Czechoslovakian athlete, whose sex was changed.

After The Show Boat

Something Should Be Done Now to Fill the Void Its Disappearance Would Mean to Victoria. Correspondent Believes.

To the Editor:—Bouquets are in order for everyone, who in any capacity helped to put over our local success, the Show Boat.

For many years there has been a need of outdoor evening entertainment of that description, and credit is due to the gentleman responsible, for its production.

But every successful showman has more than one caravan. Nearly all store tradesmen display an assorted line of goods not only to draw the transient trade, but to hold that which butters his daily bread—the permanent resident customer.

No doubt there are a number of people who could supply a list of ideas to make this beautiful location more attractive. May we be allowed to present a few?

Descriptive picture posters displayed on every railway station depot, east of the Rockies in Canadian territory inviting our own Canadian people to share with us the local opportunities for health and happiness.

Bognor Regis, an English seaside resort, recently decided to spend several million pounds on seafaring attractions—that should be an example for our municipal authorities.

The playing fields at Central Park that at present look like a colossal mud pie should be completed this fall.

A concrete roller rink constructed at Beacon Hill, perhaps in or near the bull pen.

Glass covered heated tropical winter gardens on the vacant grounds near south end of the Crystal pool.

A downtown ice skating rink.

And there are possibilities in the suggestion of an open air flower festival in the late spring season.

Pyramid Prophecies

Forecasts Held to Be "Off the Track"; Literal Instead of Spiritual Interpretation Seen as Defeating Purpose of Scripture Stories

To the Editor:—The theory of British-Israelism which is being so seriously pushed to the fore these days is not new. It has been repeated repeatedly during the last half century, generally at some crucial period in Britain's history, the same predictions—except actual dates—being made, all, however, proving wrong.

I remember a year or two ago coming across a book on British-Israelism, written by a minister, in which the writer gave not merely the approximate time, but the actual day and hour when the events prophesied would take place. I don't remember what he exactly said, but it was all along the same lines as that given out today. Needless to say his predictions failed to work out, much, I suppose, to the disappointment of many pious old ladies of those late eighties when the book was written.

In building up this treatise, or whatever you may call it, and weaving it round the great Pyramid of Gizeh, the originators of the theory were rather off the track. They attribute its construction to Semitic influence, which is wrong—True Semitic influence did permeate Egypt to a certain extent, but the religion of the Egyptians was astrological and pantheistic. They had several deities, the ruler being the sun, and they divided the heavens into four and twelve divisions—over each reigned a ruler—and over all was the overlord.

It was in connection with this worship that the Pyramids were built, though they also acted as burial places for the great ones of Egypt.

These mounds were mathematically laid out according to astrological and astronomical laws, relating in particular to the particular planet governing the time and place.

In these great structures the initiation into the priesthood took place, and it was in connection with these ceremonies that the intricate passages and king's chamber of the Great Pyramid were built, and not for the reason given by the British-Israelites.

When Egypt is mentioned in the Scriptures it refers generally to a spiritual condition—a lonely and testing condition—in the life of the regenerate soul, and is spoken of as a land of darkness, where the soul is bewildered and, as it were, in the dark.

In this land is set the witness of stone, which only means permanent; that is the spiritual conscience, and it conceals all souls of all nations and for all time, not for an age.

These things have to be spiritually discerned, and if the scriptural stories are taken literally rather than the spirit of them, it serves to but kill or defeat their purpose.

It is true the world is going through a period of flux and change, creating great perplexity—that the old order of things is passing away—but to man has been given the knowledge and power to mold the world to his own desires.

Whether out of all this chaos emerges a most just and equitable social order, showing that the divine in man has triumphed, or the beast in us predominates, and we sink to the level of the dark ages, depends on us. Which shall it be?

WAYFARER.

DISAGREES WITH RADIO COMMENTATOR

To the Editor:—What a pessimist is our morning "Timely Topics" radio commentator. His belief in his fellow men is so slight and his statement of their uselessness in the accomplishing of anything worth while is so emphatic, that one can not help but wonder what man was put on this earth for at all.

All those earnest people who attempt to bring order out of this present chaos are condemned, and their efforts ridiculed.

We are, apparently, to sit with arms folded, refusing to use our brains to change anything, and just wait for the Lord to come and fix everything.

It is true that we are in a disturbed condition at present, but it is but the birth pangs of a new and better social order that is coming into being.

Some are able to adjust themselves to the changing world, and recognizing the necessity of the changing conditions, help all they can, whilst others, wilfully or ignorantly blind, do all they can to hinder progress. Now, I, for one, will not subscribe to the idea that man is incapable and unwilling to do anything to make this a better earth, nor do I think, as does our friend, that Roosevelt is a blind fool in proposing a world-wide peace discussion.

Neither can I, nor will I, conceive the idea that the Creator of this vast universe, and this fertile world of ours, is a cruel despotic deity, apparently dooming people—thousands of years before their birth—to misery and death.

Further, I claim that it is against the teachings of Christianity, and that all who preach or subscribe to such an uncharitable and savage doctrine do not realize what spirit they are of.

BICYCLE STEALING

To the Editor:—Is it not time an example was made of some of those people, young or old, who think it is clever to steal some boy's bicycle?

Do they stop to consider the heartache for the poor kid who he comes out of some store to find his machine gone—the machine for which he perhaps struggled and saved all his nickles to help his parents get for him. That is what happened to the writers kid only yesterday.

Up-island Wedding Today

The service was choral with Mr. E. C. Trench at the organ, and the church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by Mrs. E. C. Trench and helpers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, made a lovely picture in a model gown of cruette pink satin, made on Princess lines with long tight-fitting sleeves, the skirt ending in a fan-shaped train with very sweeping lines. They carried Colonial bouquets. Little Misses Doria Melin and Evelyn Pender made two very dainty little flower girls, in frocks of green satin with puffed sleeves and net yokes, and wreaths of flowers, and carrying smaller bouquets in Colonial style. For her going-away attire the bride wore a dress of Duchess of Gloucester lace, velvet hat, and corsage bouquet, made in the new tunic effect, green felt hat, and coat in the same shade with beaver collar. After the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Scott will reside in San Francisco.

BOOTS—EIGHTEEN and pretty, is snubbed by STYLIA RIVERS. Humiliated, Boots accepts the attentions of RUS LUND, handsome swimming instructor, and impulsively elopes with him.

Almost immediately she realizes the marriage is a mistake. RUS gets a job in Miami, leaving Boots alone. Months pass and then comes word that RUS has been killed in a motor-boat accident.

Boots gets a job in a department store. She is lonely until she meets DENIS FENWAY, young author. He introduces her to some of his friends, including beautiful KAY CHILLINGFORD.

One Sunday he appears unexpectedly and takes Boots to visit cousins of his at Easthampton. Boots is received cordially and has a gorgeous time until RAY appears and takes possession of her. Hurt and jealous, Boots insists on returning to town alone.

Next day Boots telephones to tell RUS she has a job for her in a book shop. She goes to see the owner.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV

The heat wave broke next morning in a torrent of rain. Outdoors ran copper rivers and torrents sluiced in the streets. Along Birch Avenue under the elevated structure pedestrians were bent double in the effort of holding umbrellas over their heads.

The steady sheets slanted and fell. In the square where the fountain gushed muddy Niagara trees were bowed under the onslaught.

Boots, rushing along toward the "Bay Tree Shoppe," felt the tide of excitement rising within her. At eight o'clock a telegram had been delivered to her. It had read: "Report Bay Tree for work at Nine. Job is yours. Hooray, Denis."

It had remained only to telephone Lacy's, to explain to a somewhat affronted personnel manager that she would not return. Her bridges now were definitely burned.

"Bay Tree Shoppe. Books. Art Objects." She turned in at the swinging sign.

A neat, dark young woman with a green smock over her printed silk frock turned her head inquiringly. She was arranging delphinium in a vase of bubbled glass. Behind her on one of the recessed shelves was a copper kettle. There were bits of china on the small tables scattered among the books. Pale, Delft Copenhagen ware. There were gypsy Bohemian glass. And everywhere—in the recesses, on the high shelves, gleaming behind the leaded panes of the old, high-shouldered secretary—there were books, books, books. Their jackets were gilt, scarlet, blue and silver, orange and black. They made a tapestry of color along the walls and in the deep embrasures.

"Good morning," said the young woman in the smock.

"I am Barbara Lund. Did Mr. Maslerson send word?"

The other smiled. Oh, yes. Sorry, I thought you were an early customer. Will you put your things here?" She led the way to a back room.

"This is where we come and brood. Barbara, when business is bad or we want a good cry. If you're to be one of us you might as well get used to it. Hang your coat here. Horrid day, isn't it? I came from Summit on what was practically a dawn train and I'm dead already. After two weeks you a few choice bits about the shoppe I'm going to drop down on this couch and have a nap."

She went on, her soft, unaccented voice rippling lightly over the words. She was Frances Gwatney. She had been here for simply ages—years, really, straight out of college. She loved it. Boots would, too.

It wouldn't be hard, getting broken in. The prices were just as marked on the jackets, no cut rates at the Bay Tree. And she—she was plain, labelled, too. Oh, if anyone should happen to inquire about the secretary—people always were although nothing seemed to come of it—it was $235. And a bargain, too. Pure Chippendale. Now she was going to flop on the couch and Boots could call her at any time—

It was simple as that. In fifteen minutes Boots Lund was in charge of the Bay Tree. She was a little dazed by the suddenness of it. This pleasant, book-lined room, smelling of wood smoke from the deep old fireplace, would surely melt away and she would find herself in Lacy's, frantically running from one task to another on burning, aching feet. Meantime the big door opened and closed once or twice and an elderly man and two serious, be-speckled women went away with neat packages under their arms, and Frances Gwatney slumbered in the little back room with the gas ring.

At noon she emerged with one cheek rosy and the other and bright, bird-like eyes half-open, like a child who has slept long and well.

"Now you run out and have a bite," she instructed. "The tearooms around here are passable. I'll say that for them. Try Helen Dupuy's, two door up Tuesday's lamb curry. You'll adore that. Burt Masterson said he would be in around 1.30. He'll want to see you."

Boots obediently went to Helen Dupuy's, liking it instantly with its scrubbed deal tables and white-clothed Japanese waiters hurrying back and forth with smoking dishes. She couldn't, she reminded herself, afford a fifty-cent luncheon every day. But it was fun to celebrate today.

She had taken "Anthony Adverse" with her and now, with the blue bowl of soup steaming in front of her, she propped it up and began hungrily to read. This was life as she had dreamed it should be and as it had eluded her through the years; books and work that suited one and pleasant people to know.

Pleasant people! Through the type, Denis's dark brooding face with its slanting eyes, looked at her. She had to be grateful to Denis for giving her this opportunity. Grudgingly she admitted it. But never, never, would she forgive him for the night he had put upon her on Sunday.

"Hello!"

Edward Van Seiver, big, brown, prosperous and handsome in well-fitting dark tweeds, smiled down at her.

She moved aside on the oaken bench, closing the book. "Hello!"

"I rang you up Sunday night but you weren't in. Nobody was," Edward said, taking the chair opposite.

"Where you been keeping yourself anyway? Haven't seen you since I got back from the cruise?"

She had been avoiding Edward and she had been stupid to do it. He was a friend to cling to, honest and good and dependable. Not thrilling, maybe. But then you couldn't expect thrills always. You couldn't expect that painful constriction of the heart and chest—you didn't want to experience it. This time a man spoke to you.

She told him about the new job and Edward was a satisfactory audience.

"No kidding?" Edward marveled. "That's great. You'll be a knockout in the shop. Suits you."

His praise, his enthusiasm warmed her. She hadn't half-appreciated Edward before. She was always expecting him to live up to some impossible ideal, to be clever and gay and exciting, all at once. Now she found his obvious admiration very soothing. Something in her wounded pride rose to meet it.

"Look, why don't we dine together tonight?" Edward wanted to know. "And do a show—something like that?"

She had avoided him before because he had shown signs of a deeper interest. Now she welcomed this. Anything to make her forget that mocking gasp of Denis Fenway.

Burt Masterson came into the shop just after she returned from luncheon and spoke to her briefly. Would $30 a week be all right, he wanted to know? It was what the other girl had got.

Thirty dollars was all right. Boots told him demurely, with her eyes veiled to hide the involuntary sparkle of delight. He went away and Frances Gwatney said to her, "He likes you. Not many people Burt likes. He's rather a bear. I know him so well; he went to college with my older brother, Bill."

"He's very nice," Boots said. But it was not of Burt Masterson she was thinking. He had said, "Penway says you have the goods. I hope he's right."

He had smiled, and so the words hadn't sounded harsh.

So the day went by on winged feet. Boots flew back to her apartment at six o'clock to dress. The Bay Tree stepped open until nine o'clock only on Saturdays. Edward was coming for her at seven.

But first she must write to Denis. However she might feel about his treatment of her, there were the deceptions to consider. Denis had got her this job and she owed him some acknowledgment at least.

"Dear Denis," her pen faltered. "Thank you ever so much for speaking to Mr. Masterson about me. I started at the Bay Tree today. I like it."

She signed her name. What a stuffy little note! she stared at it in dissatisfaction, beginning another.

"Dear Denis—P.S. I got the job. Thanks a lot."

That, too, wouldn't do. That was too flippant, Denis hated flippancy. His perceptions were so delicate. He would frown over that one.

This was the letter she might not write; might never send to him: "My dearest! Everything I did today was colored with thoughts of you. Every time a man approached me on the street my heart leaped because I thought it was you. I was angry at you Sunday. You hurt me very deeply. But I know it wasn't you, really. It was something outside yourself. I am working at the shop and liking it. Thank you and bless you for that."

She tore the sheet in little strips, tore them across once more. What utter madness!

Mrs. Mooney put her head in the door. "Your young man's here." Boots started to her feet. Poor Edward! She had completely forgotten him!

BACKS UP OPTIMISTIC BID

Declarer, With Poor Dummy, Plays Trump Carefully to First Lead, and Makes Contract Possible

By WM. E. McKENNEY

Roughly, bridge players may be divided into two general classes—the optimists, who are habitual over-bidders and hope their partners' minimum responses to their opening bids are based on maximum values; and the pessimists, who always fear that their partners hold nothing whatever beyond the minimum they have guaranteed.

The optimist makes a lot of games that the pessimist fails to bid, but on the other hand, he takes a lot of penalties where the pessimist chalks up valuable part scores.

Today's hand is evidence of neutral values. It was bid to a slam four times and made only once, proving that three of the optimists were too optimistic.

Old Sword Of Voyageur Found

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 10.—A sword and breastplate found some days ago in the Little Long Lac area of north-western Ontario were probably the weapons of an eighteenth century voyageur, in the opinion of Dr. C. T. Curran, director of the Royal Ontario Museum.

Dr. Curran was skeptical of any assumption the find could be re-

Magistrates Wear Morning Clothes

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Magistrates all over Ontario now are sitting on the bench clothed in immaculate morning clothes as the result of a gentle "style tip" from Attorney-General Roebuck.

Mr. Roebuck a short time ago sent a reminder that the proper dress on the bench was a morning suit.

"It is the proper thing to wear," said Mr. Roebuck yesterday—"prescribed by tradition, not by me. It adds something to the dignity of the court."

DARING ACTS FAIR FEATURE

Exhibition Officials Announce Engagement of de Garros Troupe

Officials in charge of Victoria's seventy-fifth anniversary fair, which will open at the Willows on Saturday, today announced a high-grade troupe of aerialists and comedians will present free exhibitions every afternoon and evening during the week.

The squad, Grace de Garros' aerialists and Comedy Katons, have been billed for the local exhibition after outstanding performances in different parts of the continent. Their repertoire includes turns on the comedy revolving ladder by the Katons, sensational trapeze and web stunts by Helen, and novelty aerial offerings by the Grace de Garros trio.

In another feature, Grace and Helen will be seen in an aerial teeth act. The troupe comes to Victoria with a high reputation for comedy, thrills and dexterity.

The introduction of the display will mark a new attraction in the carnival line for the fair officials who have adopted the free show as one method of increasing the interest for the thousands of Victorians who will pass through the gates in what the exhibition group hopes will be record numbers this year.

Arrangements have also been made for the installation of the regular midway attractions, side-shows and rides, which always prove a major feature of the fair for adults and children alike.

Associated Press

London, Sept. 10.—The family of Lord Moynihan of Leeds, noted surgeon who advocated legislation to legalize "mercy deaths," yesterday decided the honor of burial for him in Westminster Abbey.

The baron had expressed a desire to be buried with Lady Moynihan in the family vault at Leeds, his home.

Lord Moynihan died last Monday, six days after the death of his wife.

Kiddies Guests Of Duncan Elks

Duncan, Sept. 10.—Duncan Order of Elks were hosts to hundreds of children here Monday when they held their annual Kiddies' Day. In the morning the youngsters lined up at the Elks' Home, and were presented with flags and balloons, a huge parade led by a clown band marched to the riding club grounds, where the flag was saluted and short addresses were given by H. T. Logan of the Fairbridge Farm School, and Hugh Savage, M.P.P.

In the afternoon the children were again guests of the Elks at a symposium put on by the Cowichan District Riding Club.

STORIES IN STAMPS

MECHANIC WHO BECAME A GREAT ARTIST

In the Louvre, in Paris, hangs the famous Mona Lisa, portrait of a woman whose mysteriously smiling lips and devilish eyes have mystified the art world. In the refectory of the Santa Maria della Grazia cathedral in Milan hangs another great painting, depicting "The Last Supper." Both masterpieces are the work of a man who believed himself a better mechanic than artist—Leonardo da Vinci.

This genius, who lived from 1452 to 1519, had an abundance of brilliant ideas, but few ever came to completion. Besides the two great paintings, his famed works included a remarkable equestrian statue, which was destroyed later. He is believed to have drawn the first design for an airplane.

He invented various engines of war and other mechanical devices. Even his sketches of paintings he never completed are considered masterpieces.

In tribute to Da Vinci's thoughts of flight, Italy in 1935 issued a set of airmail stamps.

High-priced Stock In Victoria Fair

Thousands of Dollars Worth of Animals Entered For Seventy-fifth Anniversary Exhibition Opening at the Willows on Saturday

Visitors to Victoria's annual fair, which will open on Saturday, will see thousands of dollars worth of stock as they walk through the barns at the Willows.

From all parts of the northwest, and with a liberal entry from centres as far east as Manitoba and Ontario, the animals are coming.

As usual the heavy-horse section will attract wide interest, with Percherons dominating the field. Second in number will be Clydesdales, while Luther Harrell's Belgians, from Ellensburg, Washington, are expected to provide particular interest not only for experts on equine points but for the public generally.

CATTLE SECTION

Vancouver Island will be substantially represented in the cattle section, with entries from Ralph Rendle and Ian Douglas, A. W. Aylard, H. E. Burbridge, the Prince of Wales-Fairbridge School, and James Turner, outstanding Jersey man of Cadboro Bay.

Prairie breeders will again vie with British Columbians in the sheep section. Cheviots, South Downs, Oxford Downs, Suffolk, Shropshires and Hampshire will be entered.

In the swine division the competition will be mainly between breeders of Alberta and Manitoba, with three British Columbia ranches adding to the class of the division.

BANK CHANGES ARE DESCRIBED

Graham Ford Towers, Bank of Canada Governor, Speaks in Vancouver

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Graham Ford Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, speaking before the Vancouver Board of Trade yesterday, said changes brought with the years had forced the average man to take monetary theories seriously.

Mr. Towers said that fifteen years ago little real interest was taken by the country at large in monetary theories and problems.

He described what he termed the mechanics of central banking, explaining how the whole monetary system of the country radiates back to the central bank, which by a system of loans and withdrawals, regulates the commercial banks and keeps them scaled to their proper positions, which depend on the community served.

"The legal minimum reserve a bank must carry is 5 per cent," he said, "but experience has taught bankers of most countries that a reserve of 10 per cent is more adequate. By means of the central bank, this reserve is maintained at approximately the figure given in Canada."

New Members For Veterans' Branch

Ten new members were admitted into the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion at a well-attended general meeting held Tuesday evening in the clubrooms, Courtney Street. W. Campbell was chosen to fill the vacancy as chairman of the sports committee, created through the resignation of J. Johnson.

The Veterans' Association commission will arrive in Victoria from Ottawa soon, it was reported, and any ex-servicemen wishing assistance in making out their questionnaires may communicate with J. G. Corry Wood, who will be available in the Pro Patria Branch following the arrival of the terms.

The meeting also pledged its assistance to the coming Canadian Legion Band programme on the Show Boat.

DUNCAN TAG DAY GRANTED

Duncan, Sept. 10.—At a meeting of the Duncan City Council, Tuesday evening, a request of the Women's Auxiliary of the hospital for permission to hold their annual tag day on September 19 was granted. The "Goods Roads League" of British Columbia wrote asking the council to send a delegate to their convention on September 21. The mayor was asked to attend and the fee to the league of $10 authorized paid day on September 19 was granted.

A letter was received from the hospital board asking the city to agree to undertake to replace the cribbing on Hospital Hill with a concrete wall, to be in union with the new building. The council had planned to do this next year, but will try to have it done this year.

WOOD USED AS FOOD SOURCE

Chemist Tells How Germany Turned to Conversion of Cellulose in 1916

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH Associated Press Science Writer

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 10.—The story of how Germany was driven to her forests to find food in the cellulose of trees fully two years before the Great War ended was told yesterday to the American Chemical Society by Dr. Friedrich Bergius, famous German chemist.

The manufacture of carbohydrate foods from wood was not a chemical stunt in the dark days of 1916, declared Dr. Bergius, who devised the process. He said:

"It was a prime necessity if the German people were to continue to eat adequately."

"When in 1916 we first took up our work for the saccharification of wood, we were prompted to do so by the desire to find ways and means to overcome the increasing scarcity of food-stuffs."

"In those difficult days the consideration—if it would not be technically possible to transform the cellulose which had accumulated in trees during the years, into edible carbohydrates, did not seem so far-fetched."

POLITICAL ECONOMY

Eventual success in the manufacture of food from wood would probably not have been possible, except for its "great importance from the viewpoint of political economy," the chemist said.

Dr. Bergius, winner in 1931 of the Nobel prize in chemistry for his process of converting coal into petroleum products, was one of the principal speakers yesterday on the "Central Day" programme of the society, which brought the entire attendance of more than 2,500 chemists and their guests together for the first time.

A new theory of the cause of cancer—the possible breakdown of normal bodily chemicals into a newly discovered hydrocarbon—was presented before the society of Prof. Louis F. Fieser of Harvard University and Dr. M. S. Newman of the Eli Lilly Company.

Nationalism Said To Be at Extremes

Associated Press

Vatican City, Sept. 10.—A front page article in the Osservatore Romano, Vatican organ, yesterday attacked economic nationalism as a source of war.

The article was written before Reichsfuehrer Hitler yesterday proclaimed a four-year economic programme at Nuremberg to make Germany independent of the rest of the world.

"Economic nationalism," the authoritative newspaper said, "has reached extreme positions such as it has never before approached. No medieval period divided Europe's economy with such insuperable barriers."

EXPENDITURES IN 1936 MORE

School Board Report Indicates Disbursements $10,336 Ahead of Last Year

The City School Board this year is $10,336.84 ahead of expenditures of last year although it is still well within the current year's budget. It was indicated by a report from the finance committee yesterday evening.

The report was submitted by Trustee Kenneth Ferguson, who said the board has spent more money in the early part of 1936 than it had done during the beginning of last year. Towards the end of this year expenditures would slacken off, he said.

To date the board has spent $302,253.36 of an estimated $402,520. Last year for the same period the expenditure was $291,916.52.

Among the increased expenditures are those under the headings of sundry services, insurance, building and grounds maintenance, and teachers' salaries.

Sundries are up $17,727, insurance $1,524, buildings and grounds $561, and teachers' salaries $5,000.

TRANSFERS FOR CITY JANITORS

Transfers in janitorial positions in city schools were approved by the City School Board yesterday evening on recommendation from the building and grounds committee.

The changes follow: W. Welch from Burnside to High School; J. Grant to High School from Victoria West; P. Ormiston to Victoria West from Technical School; J. Norman to Technical School; Mrs. Hunt to Railway Street School; Mrs. Whitman to Oaklands Annex from Railway Street.

The committee also reported progress on fourteen various projects undertaken under its supervision.

STERILIZATION VOTE

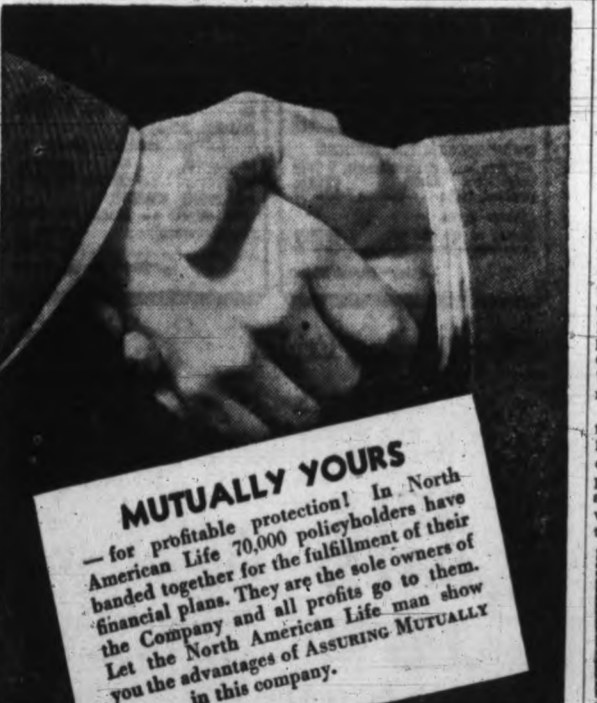

Toronto, Sept. 10 (Canadian Press).

The Toronto Board of Control yesterday endorsed the principle of sterilization of the feeble-minded, on a motion offered by Controller Ralph Day. The board will discuss the question with Hon. J. A. Paulkner, Ontario Minister of Health.

JUDGMENT ON INJUNCTION

"Clear City Council Acted Without Jurisdiction," Says Mr. Justice McDonald

The judgment granting the injunction, sought by John Day, restraining the city from paying any monies to C. S. Henley for negotiations leading to civic bond refunding, as handed down yesterday by Mr. Justice McDonald, was worded as follows:

"The plaintiff moves for an injunction on restraining the defendant corporation from paying any monies to one C. S. Henley, pursuant to a resolution passed by the mayor and aldermen of the corporation on August 31, 1935.

"The resolution is said to have been passed pursuant to the powers conferred by Section 164 of the Municipal Act, which provides that the council may by resolution pay the expenses of delegates when on municipal business whether the delegates are members of the council or otherwise.

RESOLUTION ATTACKED

"The resolution which is attacked reads as follows: 'That Mr. C. S. Henley be paid a fee of $30,000; that the first $15,000 payment on this account be made to him forthwith, and that out of this amount shall be paid the full cost of transportation, hotel accommodation, meals, etc., on trip to Great Britain, New York and Toronto, and return, of His Worship the Mayor, the chairmen of the finance committee, the city comptroller, and Mr. Henley; and the cost of all meetings, clerical help and agents' fees; that the second $15,000 payment on this account be made to Mr. Henley upon the refunding programme being adopted and accepted by the city and authorized by legislation; that, in respect of the remuneration of Mr. Henley, the City Council hereby agrees to include in its next application for a Private Act a clause empowering the city to pay to Mr. Henley the said fee of $30,000, less so much of the said first payment of $15,000 as shall have been paid out in expenses, and also agrees to exercise and fulfill such power when obtained.'

OBJECTION SUSTAINED

"The purpose of sending the delegation on its journey is that negotiations may be carried on with the city's bondholders with a view to arranging some method of refunding the city's debt. The objection taken is that the method adopted by the mayor and aldermen is not within the competence of the City Council. I think the objection must prevail and that the injunction must go.

"While the council has power to pay the expenses of its delegates on municipal business of the nature in hand, it has, in my opinion, no power to pay over a specified sum of money to a third person who may enter into any contract which he sees fit with such delegates as to the amount of such expenses. It seems to me perfectly clear that the City Council has acted without jurisdiction and that the resolution must not be acted upon.

"It was objected that a ratepayer, has no status to bring this action. That objection I think is met by the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in MacInnes v. Hart et al (1907) S.C.R. 657."

PRESS LETTER IS QUESTIONED

Trustee W. C. Moresby, K.C., Questions Correctness of Colleague's Letter

Statements made by Trustee Mrs. E. McLaurin in a letter to the press dealing with the reinstatement of Mrs. G. M. Havercroft to the Margaret Jenkins School were criticized by Trustee W. C. Moresby, K.C., chairman of the board, yesterday evening. Vacating the chair, which was taken by Trustee P. E. George, Mr. Moresby read the letter which Mrs. McLaurin wrote in which she wished to correct certain impressions created by the news report of the meeting.

Mr. Moresby drew attention to the fact that Mrs. McLaurin in her letter had stated that he did not move the resolution rescinding the board's action with Mrs. Havercroft. He said he had, as chairman of the board, suggested it, but naturally, in his position, had not moved it.

In reference to Mrs. McLaurin's notation that he had set out a lengthy preamble to the case, Mr. Moresby said he had only reviewed the case impartially and briefly. Referring to Mrs. McLaurin's claim that she had taken the initiative in bringing the matter before the trustees before a petition was filed from parents of pupils at Margaret Jenkins School, Mr. Moresby said he had taken this to mean Mrs. McLaurin's mind was made up on the matter before the inquiry was started by the trustees. Furthermore, he said, it was only the board as a whole that took initiative in matters of this kind, and no individual member had a right to claim any credit. All trustees were equally entitled to it, he said.

Two women and a man were sought, police said. They were described by the two brothers, Charles, nine, and Edward, seven, and other persons in the park at the time the baby disappeared.
They told officers a woman gave them money with which to purchase ice cream cones, and when they returned the baby was gone.

Wholesale Migration Of Canadian Hockey Stars To England

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

GOLF WILL LOSE another great champion should Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, present United States monarch, decide to give up the sport as reported. Mother of two children and thirty-three years old, Mrs. Vare has been a bit tired of national competition for several years and has told friends she would like to retire. She didn't intend to take part in the U.S. championship last year until fired with the ambition to show the youngsters she could still get out and play great golf. As golfers applauded her comeback she won the American title by defeating the youthful Patty Berg in a great final for her sixth title.

Should Mrs. Vare surrender her title without firing a shot this month, she will be the fourth United States titleholder to quit undefeated since 1930. Bobby Jones retired after his grand slam in 1930. Miss Virginia Van Wie retired after winning the women's title the third consecutive time in 1934 and Lawson Little, with two successive amateur doubles to his credit, turned professional last winter. Since she qualified for her first national with a 93 in 1919, Mrs. Vare has won approximately fifty championships.

It is surprising the number of managers in the major baseball leagues who are adopting the tactics of the late John McGraw and others of his type. McGraw ruled with an iron fist. Frank Frisch, disciple of the old Giant leader, has been singularly successful with the St. Louis Cardinals in using his methods. From bat boy to the great Dizzy Dean, it's the best they've got or get out with Frisch.

Bill Terry and Rogers Hornsby are other managers who modeled themselves after McGraw, under whom they played. Both have their faults, but there is none who does not respect them. Terry had roomed with quiet Stony Jackson for years when he was appointed head of the Polo Grounds in 1933. The first thing Memphis Bill did was room by himself. It was his tip to his teammates that he was to be the boss with all hands being treated alike.

Hornsby is a baseball tyrant, but he had the reputation of being the smartest manager of them all until cast in his present role with the St. Louis Browns, who are largely composed of culls.

Mickey Cochrane, Jimmy Dykes and Charley Dressen are considered "one of the boys," but none of them hesitate to crack down when occasion demands. There were unmistakable signs that Charley Grimm was on his way out until he took a firm grip on his command in the middle of last season. Philip K. Wrigley made Grimm a vice president of the Cubs in hope that the move would help the banjo-playing guide to take hold of the situation. It did, and the Cubs came down in front in the most phenomenal finish in the long history of the National League. Grimm, recently again had to read the riot act to the Bruins.

There is no question but that Connie Mack is the ablest handler of men in baseball. Mack runs a club with kindly tolerance, but when quiet chats fail to straighten out prima donnas and cantankerous performers, they soon are on their way.

Joe McCarthy is a foreman whose one idea is to place the right man in the right place and get the most out of him. When that doesn't work, Buffalo Joe recommends a change. Bill McKechnie and Steve O'Neill are fine men around whom players rally, but both are capable of laying down the law.

The one criticism of Pie Traynor is that he is too easy-going, which also may be the fault of Casey Stengel and Jimmy Wilson.

SOCER ENTRIES CLOSE TONIGHT

Clubs intending to compete in the Victoria and District Wednesday Football League are reminded that entries close tonight. League officials have called a meeting tonight at the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock to make plans for the season's opening on Wednesday, September 23. Originally scheduled for September 16, the initial matches have been set back one week on account of the Provincial Exhibition.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Migration of more than forty Canadian hockey players to England with the sanction of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, was confirmed today by W. A. Hewitt, Toronto, registrar of the association.

Most of the players whose transfers were approved, hail from Ontario and western Canada, but the C.A.H.A. did not grant the release of Andy Golden, who performed brilliantly in the nets last year for Toronto's Goldies, is now in England seeking release from a local club, which the association declares is necessary before his transfer is granted.

Among the eastern Canada tourists who will chase pucks with the British Ice Hockey Association, are Romeo Seguin, a goal tender, and J. Kelly, both of Montreal, and Foster Dickson, New Glasgow, N.S., and George P. McNeill, Stellarton, N.S. British Columbia is sending three players. They are Norman McQuade, Vancouver; Harry Brown and W. Forsye, Kimberley, Alberta also has one, Andy Anderson, Edmonton.

Five players from Saskatchewan will make the jaunt overseas. They are A. C. Kerr and G. Hutchinson, Prince Albert; Pete Lewick, Saskatoon, and Michael McSherry and J. McIndo, Regina.

From Manitoba come Robert White-law, St. Vital; Joseph Shick, Archie Creighton, Jack Jackson, Burr Keenah, Walter Ross, Cam Shewan and Roy Musgrave, Winnipeg, and George Horn, Port Hope.

PAPIANO TO MEET FRALEY

Will Exchange Holds in Main Wrestling Bout Here Saturday Night

Pat Fraley, San Francisco, will again take the bow before local wrestling fans on Saturday evening, when he climbs through the ropes to exchange grips and grunts with Leo Papiano, Italy. They will meet in the main event of Promoter Fred Richardson's initial show of the 1936-37 season.

Fraley is no stranger to local followers of the pastime for he has appeared here on a number of occasions and proved very popular. The San Francisco lad has still another important victory added to his string. Recently he defeated Ed "Strangler" Lewis, former world heavyweight champion, in straight falls. Papiano is a newcomer to the local ring and little is known as to his prowess. They will fight over the route of eight ten-minute rounds, or the best of three falls.

Louie Newman, Victoria matman, who has improved greatly, will take on another newcomer in the person of "Happy" Hogan, who has been active in coast circles. Their match has been billed as a special attraction and is scheduled to last five six-minute rounds.

Promoter Richardson is still looking round for a suitable opponent for Glen Stone, light-heavyweight from Olympia.

Local Oarsmen Will Compete

Eight oarsmen from the J.R.A.A. will journey to Vancouver tomorrow to compete in the annual fall regatta of the Vancouver Rowing Club on Saturday. The senior crew will include J. McDonald, stroke; Hugh Francis, three; Max Winkler, two, and Arnold Mann, bow. The 140-pound crew will consist of Gordon Scott, stroke; Fred Parker, three; Jack Muncy, two, and Lloyd Patterson, bow. Winkler will row in the singles, while Francis and Mann will compete in the doubles.

Salmonbellies Gain Box Lacrosse Final

New Westminster Scores Second Straight Win Over Richmond; Earn Right to Battle North Shore For Title; Orillia Wins in East

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—New Westminster's fighting Salmonbellies, their triumph over Richmond Farmers complete, today turned their eyes toward the next enemy that blocked the path to the championship of the Inter-city Box Lacrosse League—North Shore Indians.

Yesterday evening at Vancouver's Forum, before some 5,000 howling fans, Salmonbellies marched through the Richmond Farmers, 1935 titleholders, 10 to 10, for their second straight triumph in the semi-final series, and won the right to meet Indians in the finals. The Fishmen handed the Farmers a 13 to 11 defeat in the first game last Monday.

The best of five final for the league will start next Monday. The Fishmen going into yesterday evening's battle with a one-game lead, led their Farmer rivals 6 to 4 at the half and piled up a six-goal lead in the third quarter.

The Farmers, hopelessly beaten, threw caution to the winds in the final hectic quarter and lost three players on penalties. A dispute arose over a Salmonbelly goal and a fight ensued which finally ended in a riot with players of both teams coming from the benches and penalty boxes.

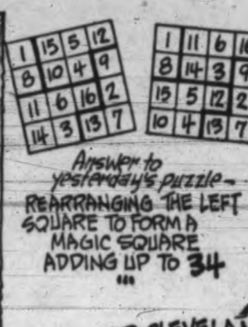

Officials finally cleared the floor, but no sooner had the game started again than more sporadic fighting broke out. The game was finally abandoned at 11 to 1 margin.

GROVER CLEVELAND—U.S. President. HAD A VULCANIZED RUBBER JAW!

LAND OF WOMEN

Under the harsh rule of Francisco Solano Lopez, President of Paraguay, the nation entered into a war of would-be conquest with Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay in 1865 that closed with the tyrant's death—March 1, 1870.

It is believed that no one nation, in so brief a time, has ever suffered such terrific human losses in proportion to her population as those stood by Paraguay in the five years of warfare. Allowing for a normal rate of population increase, she lost over 1,200,000 inhabitants, leaving less than one-fourth of that number as her entire population at the close of hostilities. Of the remainder there were only 28,746 men as against 202,333 women and children!

Practically the entire population was enlisted in the army during the height of the conflict. Whole battalions were organized containing boys ranging in age from twelve to fifteen and one detachment, "The Battalion of Death," was composed entirely of women.

There was no alternative of defeat or surrender for the soldiers of the Paraguayan army—only death or victory. A special line of picked men was stationed behind the front line fighters to shoot down any of them who attempted to flee and every soldier was under oath to kill any of his comrades who showed the "white feather."

"Conquest or Death" was the motto of the army, and death it was to the majority. The few males left in the country at the ultimate surrender were practically all so enfeebled by age they were incapable of battle—or children too young to fight, even in the youth battalions.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND

Suffering no resulting impairment of his speech, Grover Cleveland, in July, 1893, had the entire upper section of one jaw removed to cut away a cancer and an artificial jaw, made of vulcanized rubber, was substituted. The operation, made aboard a yacht at sea, was not publicized until 1917.

Tomorrow: River of Silver.

TO TRY GRID GAME IN SOUTH

Paul Rowe and Jack Ferguson Will Attend Willamette University

Two Victoria boys, Paul Rowe and Jack Ferguson, who have made good on local English rugby fields and who have been members of "rep" teams, left for the south today where they will pursue their studies at Willamette University, located fifty miles south of Portland, Ore.

Rowe and Ferguson are well known in island and mainland rugby circles and their presence will be missed on local fields this season. Both of the boys will play the American game at Willamette and should make good at it.

Rowe should figure well in the backfield as he combines the weight of a lineman and the speed of a defenceman, a mixture not over-frequently found in the grid game. Ferguson is one of the finest broken field runners ever produced on local pitches and should give a good account of himself in the backfield. Both boys were members of the Fifth Brigade for several years, under the coaching of Charlie Morton and John Baxter.

ARDMORE GOLF

Mrs. W. McLean won the eclectic competition held at the Ardmore Golf Club during the months of July and August. Mrs. Witherby was second and Miss E. Gwynne was next.

Mrs. C. Gamble won the first flight with Mrs. Witherby as runner-up.

MRS. HUSE IN KEEN VICTORY

Defeats Mrs. McIlraith, Another Victorian, in Jasper Park Golf

Jasper Park Lodge, Alta., Sept. 10.—Defeat of S. F. Powell, medalist, by A. L. Lewis, a fellow Vancouverite, featured the championship round in the Totem Pole golf tournament here yesterday.

Powell was beaten 5 and 4 after a keen struggle in which both were playing practically par golf. W. M. Scharfe, Vancouver, beat S. Haynes, Vancouver, 5 and 4; Bert Barnabe, Ottawa, beat Dr. L. N. Webster, Vancouver, 4 and 2; R. E. Lang, Seattle, beat L. A. Lewis, Vancouver, 2 and 1; Lionel Morrison, Calgary, beat Sid Maddocks, Edmonton, 4 and 2; Cecil Brown, Victoria, beat A. McPherson, Edmonton, 2 up.

Jack Starky, Edmonton, beat J. W. O'Grady, Winnipeg, 7 and 5, and Carl Havens, Seattle, won from Leigh Walsh, Calgary, 2 and 1.

In the women's championship, the feature game was between Mrs. T. Huse and Mrs. James McIlraith, both of Victoria. The former won at the nineteenth hole, with a particularly smart fourth hole. Mrs. I. May defeated Mrs. Tip O'Neill, both of Edmonton, 1 up; Mrs. E. M. Cuppage, Victoria, defeated Mrs. Sid Maddocks, Edmonton, 1 up, and Mrs. Sid Powell, Vancouver, beat Mrs. E. V. Johnston, Edmonton, 4 and 2.

It was a day of good golf as the 183 players started out in their respective flights. A. L. Lewis started out with a birdie against Powell and was 2 up at the turn. His recovery shots were deadly and his putting splendid. Powell played fine golf but the odd three-putt green ruined his chances.

QUOTING

The final league games in the Jokers Cup competition were played at the Quoting Club's grounds last week, with D. McCaig as the winner and holder of the cup for a year. T. Scouler and S. Watt tied for runner up position. In the playoff Scouler defeated Watt by the score of 21 to 8. The final standing of the players follow:

	P.	W.	L.	Pts.
D. McCaig	10	8	2	16
T. Scouler	10	6	4	12
S. Watt	10	6	4	12
J. McMillan	10	5	5	10
T. Alexander	10	3	7	6
J. Manson	10	2	8	4

A special challenge game of sixty-one shots will be played on Saturday at the club's grounds between J. McMillan, who won the British Columbia quota championship at the Caladonian games held at Vancouver recently, and T. Alexander. The game will start at 10 o'clock, and as these two players are evenly matched, a good game is expected.

With American League Pennant Won New York Club Prepares For World Series Battle; St. Louis Gains Half-game on Giants in National

Now that the New York Yankees have the American League pennant sewed up, all that remains is for the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals to fight it out for the National League flag and the chance to take on the homicide squad in the world series.

But whether it's Bill Terry's league-leading Giants or Frankie Frisch's Cards, who are four and a half games behind today, they can expect little consideration from the Yankees, who clinched the flag yesterday at one of the earliest dates in major league history and with one of the biggest leads.

No sooner had they knocked off the Cleveland Indians in both ends of a twin bill, 11 to 3 and 12 to 9, than Manager Joe McCarthy told his "murderers" row to "get ready to take the world's series in four straight games."

"I've been on pennant-winning clubs before," he shouted over the jubilation in the clubhouse, "but this is one of the biggest thrills of my life. I want you all to know I appreciate how you all hustled this year. And now let's go out and make it four straight in the series."

WERE OUTSIDERS

Outsiders in the pre-season betting, which favored the Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox and Indians, the Yanks piled up the tremendous lead of eighteen games over the second-place Chicago White Sox when they finally put the title on ice. The only thing in the books to beat that in the American League is the nineteen-company game pace Babe Ruth and his Yankee company set up in 1927 in taking the flag. This year's crew still has sixteen games to catch that mark.

The Cardinals shaved a half-game off the Giants' National League lead by outlasting the Boston Bees 3 to 1 in fifteen innings, while the Giants got an even break in their double bill with Cincinnati, winning 4 to 2 and losing 3 to 2.

The Chicago Cubs began kissing their last chance to catch up goodbye, getting only a split in a twin bill with the Phillies, winning the opener, 10 to 3 behind Larry French's eight-hit pitching, and then losing 5 to 4 in twelve innings as Johnny Moore hit two homers.

The Brooklyn Dodgers finished on top of the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8 to 7. The White Sox retained second place in the American League as Vernon Kennedy chalked up his twentieth win of the season with a 3 to 2, thirteen-inning decision over the Red Sox. The Washington Senators took over third place by firing four homers at the Tigers for an 11 to 4 win, which left the Tigers fourth and the Indians in the fifth spot.

COAST LEAGUE

Portland rode herd on the rest of the Coast League as the Beavers' double triumph over Seattle and San Diego took a pair of lacings from San Francisco Seals.

The Beavers lost the league lead to San Diego Tuesday by succumbing to Seattle, while the Padres were idle. Yesterday evening's 8 to 7, 3 to 1 results put the Beavers one and a half games ahead of the Padres.

First-place aspirations of Oakland were also hampered, with Seacrest edged out a 7 to 6 victory in thirteen innings, and although the Aorns took the nightcap, 3 to 1, they found themselves three and a half games behind the league leaders with six games left in the season.

The San Francisco Missions, out of the first division race, today found themselves faced with a battle for the fifth place. Los Angeles hung a double defeat on the Reds, 6 to 4, 6 to 1, and went into a tie with the men of Kamm.

Total at Madrid Rises Above 1,000, Says Correspondent

Madrid, Sept. 10.—(By courier to Hendaye, France).—It is estimated the total is well over 1,000 executed since the civil war began. The death penalty is decreed almost hourly. The government has done much to stop indiscriminate killing of the well-to-do hands of holligan anarchist gunmen, but death sentences are being imposed by two groups.

They are the Peoples' Committee for Public Safety, housed in the Madrid model jail with Supreme Court President Mariano Gomez as chief magistrate, and the "Cheka." Popular Front committee of investigation.

Figures of the official bulletin of the Madrid corporation show the average total weekly burials in all the capital cemeteries has been in the neighborhood of 250.

WEEKLY FIGURES
For the week ended July 15 the figure was 267, but it shot up to 563 in the week ended July 29, after the beginning of the revolution. That compared with 324 during the corresponding week of 1935.

LAWSON LITTLE GOLF LEADER

Sets Pace in Canadian Open Championship With Sub-par 67

St. Andrew's Golf Course, Toronto, Sept. 10.—Lawson Little, San Francisco, former king of the amateurs, scored a dazzling 67 today to take a one-stroke lead over Jimmy Thomson and Abe Espinosa on the first round of the Canadian open golf championship.

Thomson, another clouter from California, set the early pace with his two-under-par 68, and the pudgy Espinosa equalled this mark a little later.

Gordon Brydson, Toronto, former American Association hockey star, came in on Little's heels with a sub-par 69 to lead the Canadian shotmakers. Cunningham was the only other home pro in the first flight. Little went out in 24, bagging birdies at the fourth, sixth and eighth holes and dropping strokes to par at the second and seventh. On the 315-yard tenth he smashed a drive within twelve feet of the pin and narrowly missed an eagle. In the short sixteenth, a 160-yard pitch, the Californian's tee shot landed in a trap and he required four to get down. But his drive on the long eighteenth was 320 yards. An iron lashed the ball ten feet from the cup and he sank the putt.

ABOLITION OF DUTY SOUGHT
W. T. Straith Will Go to Ottawa to Discuss Moving Picture Question

Efforts to secure the abolition of tariffs against the importation of camera and sound equipment, together with their accessories, from the United States, will be made by W. T. Straith in Ottawa on September 23.

Mr. Straith, who will represent the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in his efforts to secure complete removal of charges against such equipment entering Canada, today stated he hoped to start east on Saturday.

The matter of duty was taken up by the chamber some time ago. In order to facilitate entry of necessary equipment for the taking of pictures, the customs officials agreed to spread the charge over a ten-year period, with monthly payments being made by the concern importing the materials.

That arrangement is purely of a temporary nature, and subject to cancellation. The question was considered by Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, and has recently been referred to the tariff board.

His trip east will be a joint mission. He will also be a representative of the provincial conference of the United Church at the biennial council in Ottawa from September 23 to October 3.

INJUNCTION ON STOCK TRANSFER
Toronto, Sept. 10.—Mr. Justice Makin in weekly court today granted an extension until the trial of an interim injunction halting the transfer of stock of the Blind River Pine Company to the Great Western Timber Company of British Columbia. The shares involved are 13,000 preferred and 125,000 common.

The application was made by I. Levintor, counsel for Mackay Irons and Company, New York, possessors of an unsatisfied New York supreme court judgment against Howard Cole ("no fixed abode") for $8,159. Defendants in the action are Howard Cole, the Great Western Timber Company and the Blind River Pine Company. The Great Western Company was represented in weekly court by Donald Guthrie, who claimed the continuation of the interim injunction would prevent his clients from disposing of the shares, already having been received. The shares involved are said to be worth about $200,000.

Sanwich Ward Two Liberal Association will hold its annual meeting this evening in Gracie Hall, Douglas Street, at 8 o'clock. All members of the ward are urged to be present. Election of officers will be the chief business.

NOT HARD TO FIND MINISTER
If the average minister in British Columbia had to depend for his livelihood upon the odd $5 or $10 bill which the groom gives him in the vestry-room, his pittance would be small indeed.

According to the latest report of the provincial registration office here there are 1,027 ministers authorized to solemnize marriage in the province now. The number of marriages which lead to the altar in B.C. per year is roughly 4,500, less than five for each minister.

CITY HOMES ARE ENTERED

Police Chief Reiterates Warning to Householders to Lock Premises

A series of house-breaking during the last two nights, this morning prompted Police Chief Healey to reiterate oft-repeated warnings to householders to take special care in locking their homes and safeguarding their jewelry.

"In almost every instance where houses are entered, the thieves gain entry through either an open door or window," the chief said. "The public can be of material assistance to the department if they will guard their homes carefully and take special precautions to lock their houses when they go out for an evening and report to police when they go away on holidays."

Practically every night, the chief said, there are cases where doors of business houses are left open and have to be secured by police officers on the beats.

Five break-ins this week have been reported. J. D. Horne, 944 Heywood Avenue, reported the burglary yesterday evening from vacation and found the premises ransacked. There was nothing missing.

Thieves who got through a basement window ransacked the home of F. L. Honor, 352 Vancouver Street, but took nothing.

A back veranda cooler was raided and a quantity of milk and cheese taken from the home of Mrs. J. M. Watt, 1149 Leaning Street.

Offices of Nesbitt, Thompson and Company in the Central Building were forced open and although the combination was broken off the safe the thieves did not get into the strong box.

In Saanich J. W. Kirby, 129 George Road, reported the entry of his home on Monday evening and the theft of gold, silver and diamond jewelry, with imitation pearls, a beaded necklace, war medals and men's clothing.

STUART HENDERSON My Boyhood Ambition

A PARSON

The first ambition of Stuart Henderson, famous criminal lawyer and frequently called Canada's Clarence Darrow, was to be a clergyman.

The insistence of teachers and fellow students at Ottawa Collegiate, where he won considerable fame in debate, played a large part in charting his course in law.

In his chosen profession, he earned his first dollar in a horse-stealing case over again Mr. Henderson would like to be a mining engineer or a chemist. "But I guess I'm too absent-minded to be a chemist," he added.

Mr. Henderson has difficulty in deciding what is the most exacting feature of his work. It is not, he said, the preparation of a case. He does that by "wandering around thinking."

He smiles as he remembers his first dollar. It appears two young brothers of the Henderson family were engaged in a private fistfight with two neighbors. Henderson went to the assistance of his kin and as he entered the fight a third brother on the opposing side lined up in combat.

"We licked them," Mr. Henderson remarks with a grin, "and my father gave us each a dollar for doing it."

If he had his active life to live over again Mr. Henderson would like to be a mining engineer or a chemist. "But I guess I'm too absent-minded to be a chemist," he added.

Mr. Henderson has difficulty in deciding what is the most exacting feature of his work. It is not, he said, the preparation of a case. He does that by "wandering around thinking."

NEW LEAGUE FOR DEFENCE
Society Formed Here Has Awakening of Youth to Vulnerability as Aim

Formation of a Defence of Canada League, with the awakening of the people of Canada to their defenceless position as its aim, has been announced by Capt. N. E. Fairweather, acting national president.

The league has been organizing for several months, and sixty members are now on its roster. Its executive emphasizes that it is a non-political organization.

The league will urge the government of Canada to provide adequate land, sea and air defence for the nation, and will bring continuously before the youth of Canada and succeeding governments the necessity of defence being maintained and strengthened.

It is planned to have local branches under the direction of a national body.

"We feel that Canada can protect her interests as well as Australia, New Zealand and South Africa can protect theirs, and that the defenceless position of Canada is a danger to the integrity of the empire," Capt. Fairweather said today.

A foreign power would want its "pound of flesh" for protecting Canadian homes and citizens in time of strife, he said, and the foreign policies giving Canada protection were liable to change, he said.

The temporary office of the league is at the Victoria Book and Stationery Company Ltd., Government and Broughton Streets, where those interested may obtain further information.

MARKET CASE TO BE HEARD

Government Watches Hearing on Vegetable Board Injunction

The provincial government will be represented at a hearing before the Court of Appeal shortly on an injunction granted recently by Mr. Justice Murphy against the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board, it was learned this morning.

The injunction restrains officers of the vegetable board from searching agricultural produce under its jurisdiction being shipped into Vancouver. Mr. Justice Murphy held that as long as a shipper stated his product was for export it could not be touched by the board.

The vegetable board has taken the case to the Court of Appeal, and the provincial government, realizing the far-reaching effect of the decision that may be made, has named J. E. Lane, provincial marketing board chairman, with counsel, to represent it at the hearing.

PLANTA WILL BACK CONNELL
Peace River Member Declares Himself; Uphill and Bakewell are Factors

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 10.—Clive Planta, M.P.P. for Peace River, today had voiced his support of Rev. Robert Connell as leader of the opposition in the British Columbia Legislature.

"The present alignment of members in the Legislature, in my opinion, can offer no logical challenge to the status of the present," he said here yesterday in an interview.

"Therefore I for one would not be a party in challenging the right of Rev. Mr. Connell to continue as leader of the opposition."

"In any event such a policy, emanating from conservative sources, should originate with the leader of the party and I have no knowledge that Dr. F. P. Patterson intends to advise such a course of action," he said.

"During the past three sessions, Mr. Connell has conducted himself in a manner which invites admiration and while I disagree pointedly with the principle of Socialism which he advocates on behalf of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation party, I hold the highest regard for him personally."

"I am confident that, when the next session convened, Mr. Connell will tender his resignation as leader of the official opposition if he is unable to sustain that position with dignity."

Two members who sit on the left side of Mr. Speaker in the Legislative Chamber may be the big factors at the next session in deciding whether Rev. Robert Connell, erstwhile C.C.F. House leader, remains as leader of the Opposition or not, political observers here believe today.

They are Ernest Bakewell, C.C.F. Mackenzie, and Thomas Uphill, Labor. Both have supported Mr. Connell in the last three sessions when he sat as C.C.F. House leader. While neither has declared himself since the recent split between Mr. Connell and the C.C.F. provincial executive, friends of the Opposition leader believe he will have their backing if a test comes in the House.

The addition of these two would give Mr. Connell the support of six on the left benches of the House, now that Mr. Planta has declared himself leaving the Winch group of the C.C.F. with three and four in the Independent bloc.

Should they cast their lot for the Winch C.C.F. wing, it would leave this group with five, strong enough to demand leadership.

Mr. Connell, in a statement to the press, said he will make no attempt between now and the session to solicit support. Recognized still by the government as official Opposition leader, he will let the matter rest with the House.

"It is really a matter of indifference to me," he said.

Arms Embargo Plans Delayed
Britain Urges Portugal to Give Full Support to Spain Ban

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Sept. 10.—Great Britain today made most urgent representations to Portugal to join the international committee discussing an embargo on arms to Spain.

Although she has accepted the embargo in principle, Portugal still remains outside the committee. Portuguese objections are based on the fact the committee may leave the field of non-intervention and try to stop the war.

A report on yesterday's committee proceedings was sent to Lisbon in an endeavor to convince the Portuguese government the committee does not consider mediation of the civil war within its scope.

The committee, which arranged an exchange of information between European powers on arms embargoes and other neutrality measures may meet again this week.

Rotary Hears Committee Men P. L. O'CONNELL PASSES AWAY

Work of Various Divisions of Club is Explained to Members

The principles of Rotary and the work of the various committees within their club were outlined to Victoria Rotarians in a programme arranged by Hamilton Harmon, president of the club's service committee, at the weekly luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel today.

Hub Maynard, president of the attendance committee, carried on a dialogue with James Adam, who has only missed one meeting in twenty-three years, to show the ideal of attendance at Rotary meetings.

Mr. Adam said he only missed one meeting because he went to the wrong luncheon. He attended a Studebaker sales luncheon instead of the Rotary luncheon, in the Royal York Hotel in Toronto. Fellowship, he felt, was the reason for his attendance at meetings.

Jack Mackay, president of the acquaintance committee, drew attention to George Pearson and Herb Anselcomb, sitting next to each other, as an example of Rotary friendship. There was nothing in their club if the members did not get to know each other.

Bill Wilson, president of the golf committee, said that his committee was drawing up a winter programme of games and competitions and asked for support from all members.

Alec Feden, chairman of the membership committee, said that the club was below what it should be in its city of this size. There were only ninety-six members, instead of 125. He asked for names of proposed new members by next week.

George Macrose, president of the sports committee, drew attention to the fact that the ten-pin bowling league was to start soon, and asked all bowlers to be on hand.

Al Prescott, president of the music committee, felt that the Rotary Club should take the lead in bringing back the Seattle Symphony Orchestra. He also asked the club to sponsor a junior orchestra which he was starting among high-school students in the city.

Frank Doherty was in the chair. Arrangements will be made for a tour of Rotaries Boys Band next summer, it has been decided. Boys who can play brass instruments can join the band by attending a meeting tomorrow evening at 7:15 o'clock at 1301 Fort Street. Both band and orchestra will play this winter. It is planned, and boys wishing to learn instruments in either group, should attend the meeting. Only band instruments will be lent.

Set in a gay background of Broadway life, Universal's tuneful comedy of love, "Manhattan Moon," co-starring Ricardo Cortez and beautiful Dorothy Ferebee, famous radio singer and actress, is now at the Columbia Theatre.

Universal, in giving the picture what in Hollywood is called "production value," uses as settings the theatre in which Miss Ferebee, playing a dual role, sings to Mr. Cortez, a gay, modernistic night club, "The High Hat," owned by the character which Cortez enacts; several beautiful New York apartments, theatres, and the "gay white way" itself. Into these backgrounds are crowded the hustle and bustle of New York life.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am married to the best man in the world and we have been as happy together as two people could be. But now I am confronted with a problem that threatens to wreck all of our contentment. It is this: His people want us to break up our home and go and live with them because his mother is sick most of the time. My in-laws are fine. I love them very much and they are fond of me, but I have a hunch that if we went to live together we would fall out. Of course, I'll go if I have to, but I don't think it is the right thing to do. And what I suggest doing is for my husband and his sister to hire a woman to go and stay with the old people and do the work. Don't you think that fair enough? My husband doesn't make big money.

MRS. C. E. D.

Answer—Your plan is the sensible one and it will save all of you a lot of misery if you put it through. It will save you so much grief that I urge you to deny yourself almost anything in order to hire a woman to stay with your mother-in-law rather than to go yourself.

It sounds cynical to say that in families distance makes the heart grow fonder and that generally we love our relatives, and especially our in-laws, in proportion to the amount of space there is between us. We enjoy and are fond of those whom we see only occasionally when we have our best company manners on and when our interests do not conflict. But those whom we live with, day in and day out, whose whims and peculiarities rub us raw, and whose little aggravating ways we have to stand are more than flesh and blood can bear. And the results are quarrels and bitterness and strife that wreck the happiness of so many people.

See if you can't make your husband grasp this one simple fact: That when he asks you to go into his mother's house and take charge of it and nurse her, he is asking two women to make supreme sacrifices. He is asking his mother to step down off of the throne she has occupied ever since her husband brought her home as a bride. He is asking her to give up all authority in matters over which she has ruled for thirty years; to keep her fingers out of the pies that she has always made according to her own little recipe, which is as inflexible as the law of the Medes and the Persians.

He is asking you to make yourself a slave in another woman's house; to do her bidding, be subject to her orders; to have no freedom to even change the arrangement of a room, and for all your toil and sacrifices to have no reward but criticism and complaints.

If your husband thinks that this adjustment of two women can be made happily and harmoniously, he knows mighty little of the feminine temperament. It simply can't be done. No daughter-in-law can come in and oust her mother-in-law, out of her own house without friction, for no daughter-in-law is enough of a rubber stamp to be willing to meekly do her mother-in-law's bidding in a house in which she is doing all of the work. They are bound to differ on a thousand little points.

I know of one family quarrel whose rancor has survived for more than twenty years in which the mother-in-law and daughter-in-law fell out over the way to wash a pitcher.

So my earnest advice to you is to pay a servant to go and take care of your mother-in-law and stay in your own home. It will save the happiness of all concerned.

DEAR MISS DIX—At the career conference for women recently held in Philadelphia, Miss Marie Doremus, the personal director of the Philadelphia Gas Works, gave the following advice to job-seeking girls. She said: "Don't wear fuzzy-wuzzy hair-bobs; sleeveless dresses, lipstick too much rouge or red-painted fingernails." I can add that in the large corporation with which I am associated no girl who had any of these habits would be considered as an applicant for a job, no matter what her qualifications or recommendations. Perhaps it will help some other girl to land a job to pass this tip along.

SCRATES.

Answer—No doubt it will, for in trying to make themselves attractive many girls achieve the exactly opposite results and by their overuse of cosmetics and permanents give an impression of triviality and flightiness that makes an employer turn them down.

For who would want to employ a girl who looked as if her whole mind was concentrated on her hair? Who would want to have to look at a stenographer taking notes whose fingernails looked like claws that had been tipped in blood? And who would feel that they could trust any important matter in business to a girl whose clothes showed that she did not have enough good sense and judgment to even buy a dress or a pair of shoes?

Many girls think they make themselves attractive by dressing up for business as if they were going to a party, but they make a sad mistake. The ideal business girl should look her part. She should be neatly, simply, quietly dressed; not all diked out in gawaws as if she were a society girl on her way to a reception.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—What should a girl do who needs the job she now has and who finds the men who come into the office, friends of her employer, make advances to her? What should she do when a man she has only met once or twice in a business way tries to kiss her?

ESTELLE.

Answer—If you have the nerve to look in your eye, cut it out and make your eyes behave. Keep them fixed on you work. Don't look like the kind of a girl that makes a man think that he might make a stab at dating her.

Dress plainly. A girl who is all dolled up like the Queen of Sheba always makes the beholder think that she might not be used to stepping out, and had got herself ready to go places and have good times.

Don't get tragical or hysterical and burst into tears when strange men try you out to see how far you will go. Laugh it off, but make your "no" sound convincing. I have never known a man whom a girl couldn't freeze out if she was really bent on doing it.

Uncle Wiggly's Summer Snow

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Let's have a fight," said Buster to Custer.

"All right," agreed Custer. "I can fight better than you."

"Let's see you," said Buster, and the two boys rabbits hopped off the porch of Uncle Wiggly's hollow stump bungalow and ran down toward the back yard.

"Oh, Daddy!" exclaimed Custer, a new little girl rabbit who had come to live in the bungalow a short time before this. "Did you hear what Buster and Custer are going to do?"

"What's that, my dear?" asked Uncle Wiggly, who was sitting on the porch, looking at the two boys.

"Buster and Custer ran to the back yard to have a fight," said Custer. "I thought it wasn't nice to fight."

"Sometimes it isn't," said the rabbit gentleman. "But I don't believe Buster and Custer are going to fight, really. It's just one of their ways of having fun. If you like I'll take you down in the yard and we can watch what they do."

"Please do, Daddy," begged Custer. She took hold of the paw of Uncle Wiggly, who was also her daddy, and together the two rabbits hopped toward the back yard where grew many bushes, shrubs and small trees. As they hopped nearer, Custer and her father could hear Buster and Custer shouting.

"That's the time I hit you!" cried Buster.

"Now it's my turn to hit you," said Custer.

"Oh, they are really fighting!" whispered Custer.

"I don't believe so," said Uncle Wiggly.

Just then, all of a sudden, the air over the heads of Uncle Wiggly and Custer was filled with small, round, white balls.

"Oh, it's snowing!" cried the little rabbit girl. "I didn't know there could be snow in summer, Daddy."

"There can't," said Mr. Longears. "At least not here."

"But see the white things flying around just as they did last winter when I was a baby rabbit," said Custer. "They look like baby snowballs."

"That's just what they are," said Mr. Longears. "At least that's what we call them around here. And that's what Buster and Custer are fighting with. Come and watch them."

DIDN'T HURT

From back of a bush, Custer and Uncle Wiggly watched the two rabbit boys pulling small white berries, about as large as cranberries, off some bushes. These berries or snowballs, the rabbit boys were throwing at each other. They pulled each other all over with the snowballs, but the berries were soft and mushy and didn't hurt at all.

Some of the snowballs fell near Custer. She picked one up and crushed it between her paws. A little juice came out and inside were tiny seeds. Uncle Wiggly told her the white balls on the bushes were really seeds.

"Oh, Daddy! They're lovely to play with," said Custer. She threw some of the tiny summer snowballs at the boys and they threw some back at her, not hurting her in the least. Finally Buster and Custer finished their fight and ran away. Uncle Wiggly and Custer were going to buy a new dog when, all of a sudden, Custer said:

"Oh, Daddy! Look! What a fierce looking animal!"

Uncle Wiggly looked and saw the Fox shaking up.

"Quick, Custer!" called Mr. Longears. "We must snowball the Fox!"

They threw the bush snowballs at the Fox. They didn't hurt him, but the Fox thought, just as Custer had, that they were real snowballs and being very much afraid of catching cold, he ran away. Then Custer laughed and so did her father. And if the baker will stop putting mercurchrome on the loaf of bread and calling it strawberry shortcake I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly's soda fountain.

Pope Will Address Spanish Refugees

Associated Press

Vatican City, Sept. 10.—Luis Zulueta, Spanish ambassador to the Holy See, prelates disclosed yesterday, has sought for several days to soften the edges of the speech. Pope Pius XI is preparing for ecclesiastical refugees from Spain.

The Holy Father, when he speaks next Monday to the refugees, will read from a prepared text on which he is now at work.

The Vatican has shown bitterness against the reported slaying of many priests and bishops in Spain.

Soviet working women are taking to use of perfumes and cosmetics, as production of these goods increases in Russia.
